A circular flapjack powder compact is shown on the left side of the advertisement. It features a dark, textured surface with a prominent, stylized white 'W' logo in the center. The logo is composed of several thick, curved lines that form the letter 'W'. The compact is shown at a slight angle, giving it a three-dimensional appearance.

1. The first step in the process is to identify the problem or issue that needs to be addressed. This involves gathering information and understanding the context of the situation.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, married DICK RADIN, construction superintendent. He wants her to give up her job but she refuses. Eve does not want her employers to know she is married, so they keep the marriage secret several months. At Christmas they announce it. They spend a brief vacation at the home of Eve's parents.

Back at the office MARIYA VLAD, fashion artist, and ARLENE SMITH, stenographer, greet Eve warmly. Eve knows that MONA ALLEN, the new copy writer, dislikes her and is trying to cause trouble for her. The office boy tells Eve that Mona hopes to get her job.

CHAPTER XV

The office boy's warning, "Don't let Miss Allen get your job; she's counting on it," was still echoing in Eve's ears when the buzzer summoned her to Mr. Barnes' office. Her heart seemed to skip a beat as she entered the room.

The advertising manager's greeting was pleasant enough but brief. "I need hardly say," he told her frankly, "that I should have hesitated to recommend you for Miss Marshall's place had I known at the time of your marriage. But since you have started the work you may continue for the present and we'll see how it goes. However, the situation comes down to this; Bixby's will permit no divided interest. We will tolerate no deviation from the standard of excellence which heretofore has marked your work."

Considering his natural brusqueness, Eve felt that Barnes had been fairly diplomatic. But he had made clear the fact that she was still on trial at Bixby's instead of being firmly established. The least indication of carelessness on her part would be sure to be attributed to her marriage. Barnes' statement, together with Charles' warning about Mona's designs, showed Eve clearly that there must be no let-down in her work.

She realized, too, that she had underestimated Mona. The girl had ability of a sort. And she had a way of flattering men that Eve knew sometimes advanced a woman in the business world more rapidly than did hard work, even with such clear-headed, fair-minded men as Earle Barnes and Mr. Bixby.

Eve's code forbade trying to take the place of an established worker.

Mona obviously had no such scruples. Well, Eve decided, it was of no use to borrow trouble. So long as the girl played reasonably fair Eve would take no notice of her antagonism. To do otherwise would create an unpleasant situation in the office. The Monas of the world usually married early and marriage probably would eliminate this particular one from Bixby's. Eve was quite sure the other girl would seize upon the first excuse to quit work. Meanwhile she was likely to make complications in a situation which, Eve felt, had quite enough difficulties already.

That evening Mrs. Brooks was watching for Eve when she arrived home. Mrs. Brooks brought forth two gift boxes which had been delivered that day.

"Candlesticks from Marya and a Venetian glass bowl from Arlene!" exclaimed Eve as she lifted the gifts from their tissue-paper wrappings. "The darlings—I want to have a party for them!" she told Dick.

"We ought to celebrate New Year's Eve with a watch party," he suggested.

And so next morning Eve invited the girls to her home for a celebration on New Year's Eve. With a burst of generosity she invited Mona Allen also.

"Delighted," drawled Miss Allen. "I'll bring my boy friend, if you don't mind."

"Eve," spoke up Arlene impetuously, "won't you ask that Mr. Bliss in the rug? I've had a crush on him ever since I came to Bixby's but I haven't had a chance to make the slightest impression. Do that favour for me, won't you, dear?"

Eve agreed. She halted after she had invited 20 guests. There really was a limit to the number the apartment could seat comfortably.

Thursday evening the box of presents from home awaited Eve and Dick when they reached the apartment. "Guess it was worth while spending all that time packing them," Dick commented as he lifted the wedding and Christmas gifts from the excelsior. "There's not a single thing broken!"

He set up the radio and the new lamp while Eve tried to decide where the other things should go. She surveyed the new possessions with critical eyes.

"Now if we only had that Pennsylvania water bench," she said, "to display this colourful china and glass and that antique chest of drawers to fill this wall space this room would have real atmosphere. You remember, Dick! The things I wanted in that little antique shop in Tamkinville? And if we're going to serve 20 Monday night I ought to have that nest of tables we saw at Martin's, too."

She hoped Dick would write out a cheque and tell her to send for the antiques but he gave no sign that he had heard what she said. With Eve, to decide that she needed and wanted a thing was to decide she must have it. Next morning, therefore, after Dick had gone to work she took inventory of the household finances. Two days before Dick had given her a cheque for the rent and another for food expenditures for the coming month.

The two cheques would pay for the party refreshments and flowers. On her way to the office Eve telegraphed the money to the antique dealer and instructed him to send on the pieces he had put aside for her.

At noon she went to Martin's, opened a charge account and ordered the nest of tables sent home. She felt very business-like, very efficient. It worried her, however, that Martin's credit manager asked the name of her husband's employer and of his bank as well as her own. She intended to pay for the tables, a little each week, from her own earnings and she did not see why Dick should know anything about it.

The cheque for the rent and the money for meat and groceries, Eve put out of her mind. The rent was not yet due and there would be time enough to worry about that after the party. Dick probably would be reasonably about the matter after he knew the things were bought and saw how much the new purchases improved the apartment.

The day of the party Eve awakened feeling tired and with a sense of foreboding.

She would have been glad to remain at her home in order to prepare for the party. The fact that she was tired emphasized the irony of having to sit for eight hours in an office where, as luck would have it, there was very little to do.

Mona Allen was elsewhere in the store most of the day, dallying longer than necessary over a few simple errands. Arlene came back from an unusually long lunch period with her head topped by stiff black waves. Her face was glowing and her nails very pink.

"All set for the big time!" she announced. "I can scarcely wait until to-night. I went through the rug department just to have another look at Mr. Bliss. He didn't notice me of course. Eve, you were a perfect darling to invite him to your party. Honestly I do think he's the handsomest thing!"

Eve smiled wanly and ran a fresh sheet of paper into the typewriter. She wrote half a line and x'd it out. After three more starts she crumpled the paper and threw it into the wastebasket. She hadn't a single original thought, she told herself, and if it was no use trying to write. She longed to lie down and relax so she might feel refreshed for her duties as hostess that evening. And she was becoming more worried every moment over the antiques.

Dick telephoned in the middle of the afternoon and suggested dropping in at the Old Mill for dinner on their way home. Eve was glad she would escape cooking and washing the dishes afterward.

When they arrived home at a quarter to seven a strange sight greeted them. Stacked up inside the hall were the water bench, the chest of drawers and the nest of tables, topped off by a great bunch of evergreen boughs from Mrs. Brooks' trees.

"What's all this?" Dick frowned as he pushed the furniture away from the door and inserted the key.

"Oh, Dick, I meant to tell you—I sent for those antiques at Tamkinville! You remember how we thought they would just fit into the decorative scheme of this lovely old house?" Her heart thumped.

"Yes, I remember," answered Dick. "But nobody said anything about buying them."

He was silent as he brought the furniture into the apartment. He was silent as he followed Eve's directions about setting it in place.

The ringing of the telephone interrupted them and Eve answered. It was Mona Allen.

(To Be Continued)

For lack of a few gallons of gasoline, the daring east-west Atlantic flight of James and Amy Molison ended in the mud of a Bridgeport, Conn., swamp. Here is the wreckage of their plane "Seafarer." Forced to land 80 miles from their goal after a 30-hour flight from Pendine Sands, Wales, the weary aviators overshot the landing field. Both suffered minor injuries in the crash.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

"The Million Dollar Scandal," melodrama of a nation-wide big-money swindle, which opens to-day at the Queen's Theatre will continue its run till Saturday.

Robert Armstrong heads the cast in the role of Fingers Partos, the humble assessor and ex-convict, who becomes the man of the hour when he dares to talk, exposing a group of millionaire financiers as the perpetrators of a gigantic swindle.

Constance Cummings appears in the feminine lead, as Doris Blackstone, daughter of the leader of the swindlers, a role played by Frank Morgan. Others of prominence are Olga Baclanova as Fingers' girl; James Gleason and Warren Hymer as Ratsy and the Kid, his two pals; Frank Albertson as his younger brother; Irving Pichel as the editor of the newspaper which conducts the exposé and Hale Hamilton, Dorothy Peterson, Ralf Harolde, Berton Churchill and Sidney Toler are in supporting roles.

"Dangerously Yours"

Miriam Jordan, charming young English actress who has been making rapid strides forward in the motion picture industry since her recent debut in "6 Hours to Live", is a young lady of very decided ideas.

"I believe in being individual," she says, "and no woman can be individual if she lets someone else make up her mind for her about what she should wear."

Miss Jordan wears a number of stunning gowns in her latest Fox Film production, "Dangerously Yours", now at the King's Theatre, in which Warner Baxter is starred. She has the role of a girl detective who seeks to trap a suave society thief, played by Baxter.

Herbert Mundin, Florence Eldridge, Nella Walker, Florence Roberts, Misha Auer, Arthur Hoyt and Will Davidson also are prominent in the cast. Frank Tuttle is the director.

Take the lift to the top floor.

The reason for this is in the apparent agelessness of the charming story, in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature which is coming on Sunday to the Queen's Theatre.

In her deft hands, Peg seems to have a new personality and yet with it loses none of the crystal romance of the Irish girl we know so well on the stage.

The comedy moments of the story abound in richness of dialogue and situations and the love theme with Onslow Stevens as Sir Gerald adds a poetic gentleness to the story.

but comes upon the screen with a freshness that is delightful, stirring at the same time fond reminiscences of another day.

Included in the cast are J. Farrell MacDonald, Juliette Compton, Irene Brown, Tyrrell Davis, Alan Mowbray, Doris Lloyd, Robert Gleason, Nora Cecil and Geoffrey Gill.

more important way. She won't play any part she doesn't like, which is one reason why Director Alfred Werker welcomed her in one of the most important roles of "It's Great to Be Alive".

In addition to Rouillon and Miss Oliver, the cast of "It's Great to Be Alive" includes Herbert Mundin, Dorothy Dungan, and Joan Marsh.

AVIATOR ARRIVES.

SUN TUNG-KANG GREETED IN SHANGHAI

Shanghai, Sept. 6.
 Sun Tung-kang, the Chinese pilot, arrived from Nanking at noon to-day on his cross-country flight.

He was met by a large and enthusiastic crowd, which included representatives of the Municipal Government of the Greater Shanghai, Garrison Headquarters, the Chamber of Commerce and other prominent personages.

He is remaining in Shanghai for a day or two, and is then proceeding to Hangchow.

Sun Tung-kang recently completed a flight from Germany to China, by easy stages, in his plane "Raufer".

NEW PARTY MANIFESTO ON FRIDAY

Dublin, Sept. 6.
 General O'Duffy returned to Dublin to-day for a conference with the officers of his organisation and those of the Cosgrave and Centre parties.

It is expected that the new United Irish Party will issue a manifesto on Friday.

The announcement that the local Government elections for the Free State have been fixed for November 14 is taken as finally precluding the possibility of a general election before the New Year.

This Difference in a
Woman's Face . . .

837 Inner Springs
in Individual Pockets

Scientific observations have proved that you cannot get completely rested on a lumpy or a sagging mattress.

Feeling around all night for a comfortable position . . . lying huddled in a hollow. Things like this leave nerves and muscles only part-way rested. And the lines they write on your face are known as lines of 'mattress fatigue.'

But there IS a mattress that is scientifically built for completely relaxing sleep—the Simmons Beautyrest Mattress.

In this famous mattress are 837 tiny coils of finely tempered steel, each in its individual muslin pocket.

They buoy you up. You feel no pressure. No restriction. You can turn in your sleep without knowing it! Every inch of you gets gloriously relaxed!

GO SEE this wonderful mattress this very day.

THE COLONY'S BUDGET

The highly healthy state of the Colony's finances lends an interest to the forthcoming presentation of the Budget not usual to the annual stocktaking. In a year of business depression, with intensive competition carving deeply into the commercial profits which might have been made despite smaller turnovers, the Treasury has steadily increased its surplus and the balance on the right side exceeds the sixteen million dollar mark. If revenue continues to come in at the same rate, new records will be established, although the principal factor in the flourishing condition of the Treasury is, of course, the rise in dollar exchange, making possible a great saving in salaries, for instance, as compared with the Budget Estimates. The position is highly gratifying but it throws a greater responsibility than usual upon the framers of the Budget for 1934. We can look confidently upon the past and the remainder of 1933: the future presents more difficulties and a forecast of what the Government will do is not easy. What will happen to the dollar? Will the yield from present taxation continue at its present high level? These are two questions which will be uppermost in Government's mind when formulating its proposals for the coming year, and they are not easy to answer. It is probably safe to assume that the dollar will not go much lower than it is to-day; if any pronounced movement takes place it is more likely to be upward than downward. On the second point, it is possible to make out a strong case for a reduction of taxation based upon the figures of falling trade. A review of revenue sources should certainly be undertaken with a view to affording some relief, where it would do most good. It might even be wise to unbalance the Budget—permitting ourselves to remember the ample surpluses already existing—to secure benefit for the public. This would not necessarily mean any interference with the emergency taxation imposed when the dollar was round the elevenpenny level—entertainment tax, betting duty and the increase in the assessment tax are all of the type which spreads the burden most equitably—but there are directions where relief could be afforded in a way which would engender some enthusiasm. A cut in the assessment tax would merely mean a bonus to landlords; there are other ways, postage rates to mention only one, if those responsible look carefully enough for them. Whether they will or not depends upon how they view the very uncertain future; with hopeful optimism or the customary ultra-cautiousness.

NOTES OF THE DAY

LOCAL PLAYGROUNDS

Government support for the Playgrounds Association follows closely upon recent criticism of official policy regarding the provision of open spaces. Twenty-one thousand dollars is now to be devoted to the preparation of four grounds, two in Hongkong and two on the mainland, and the money could scarcely be better spent. The Playgrounds Association will take over responsibility for maintenance. The Government's action is gratifying, although there remains a great deal more to be done in the same direction.

FOOCHOW PROBLEM

The situation at Foochow is still serious although feelings of alarm have been somewhat allayed since last week. The Communists appear to be in considerable strength, but the principal factor in their successes against the XIXth Army is lack of unity. It seems a sad commentary upon the Chinese military machine generally when two divisions under the same ultimate Command let one another down because of personal disagreements between leaders.

VENTILATING THOUGHT

Mental air pockets resulting from the sluggish circulation of ideas are big handicaps to healthful thinking. Like a close room whose atmosphere is quickly improved by opening a window at top and bottom, the human mentality needs fresh currents of thought obtained by a kind of cross-ventilation process. Mental ruts and indolent habits of thought predispose one toward intellectual stultification. Prevention and cure of this unhappy state are both accessible to multitudes. The simple programme of opening the windows of thought to fresh ideas is the only prescription necessary; but it takes persistence to follow through. We all tend to become creatures of habit, to take the line of least resistance. Most of us need to let the currents of fresh ideas sweep away prejudices and obsolete opinions.

NEW ANGLES

Cross-ventilation of the thinking processes is mainly a matter of viewing things from new angles. Old subjects of interest take on vitality when thus regarded. Withdrawal from the banal, widening the receptivity of eye and ear to beauty, diversification of eminent men and women and the cultivation of curiosity about current affairs and world movements contribute to such ventilation. Tolerance for the views of others does not imply assent to practices which run counter to cherished fundamentals, but it is a powerful levelling in the lump of human discord. Tolerance is a fresh breeze when it is into the habitations of thought. With all its vast problems, the present age offers less excuse than any which has gone before for lending a sluggish mental existence. Unbounded opportunities for self-cultivation and improvement pervade the civilized world. Hopefulness is in the air. Across old ignorances and subjective thinking move the invigorating winds of unselfish desire for better things for all sorts and conditions of men, and these currents animate the Aeolian harp of the willing intellect to greater fullness of living.

BETTING

Since its presentation very little has been heard from official quarters concerning the Rowlett Commission's Report on lotteries and betting. What is its most probable fate? The shelf? Latest information suggests there is a risk of it; and yet, despite outcry from interested quarters, it had many good points. Sir Sidney Rowlett is no bigot, and the Report makes a laudable attempt to distinguish two things—the individual's desire to "have a flutter," which it proposes to let him indulge rather more freely than before, and the operations of bodies seeking to exploit this desire for their own profit, which it aims at controlling. We dislike the proposal to restrict "totes" to horse-racing and refuse them to dog-racing, because it savours of class-unfairness. But the proposal to limit all race-courses alike to a maximum of 100 openings a year seems wise.

OUR NOISIER WORLD

By A. P. GARLAND

THE Industrial Health Board in its recent report states that after close investigation it has been proved that the constant clatter of many typewriters makes no difference to the health of the sufferers and practically none to their efficiency.

This may serve to calm to some extent the panic-mongers who are always bemoaning the stress and fury of modern life.

For example, they indict the speeding-up, which is the salient feature of latter-day transport, and assure us that the rate at which we are borne in our trains, motor-cars and other vehicles is making this a nerve-racked age.

Yet, on analysis, we see how feeble is this charge. Which is the more soothing, to sit at ease in a comfortable railway carriage or rubber-tired motor-car travelling smoothly at 40 to 60 miles an hour, or to be jolted about in rattling, springless, slow-moving vehicles over rough ground?

LABOUR-SAVING INVENTIONS.

Again, if we survey the whole field of human existence we shall quickly realise how modern inventions have greatly ameliorated the disabilities which our forebears had willy-nilly to endure.

In the home, labour-saving devices have got rid of 90 per cent. of the drudgery of domestic work. No longer is the housewife an old woman before she is 40. In the industrial and commercial world, science has provided us with infinite means of avoiding the tedious and agonising labour of the bad old days.

Even in such matters as bodily gain, which surely must be the greatest of all nerve irritants, medical discovery has endowed us bountifully with palliatives. No man, for instance, with tablets at his elbow need endure a headache for any length of time; his grandfather had usually to grin and bear it. And in grave illnesses the patient of to-day has a luxurious time in comparison with his predecessors.

NOISIER—BUT EASIER.

True, it must be admitted that ours is a noisier world than ever before. The growth of traffic and of factories has produced a volume of sound that might be expected to be gravely injurious to the nerves.

Yet to accept this belief would be to discount unwarrantably the amazing adaptability of the human race to changing conditions. Old and feeble people may find the noise of modern traffic oppressive, but it is their lack of resiliency that is to blame.

The modern child, born into a noisy world, suffers no discomfort from the turmoil. To him or her it is the natural condition of things. And the riveter or boiler-maker makes no complaint of the din in which he labours.

To sum it up, we have no need to worry about the stress of modern life. It is now smoother and easier than ever before, as our predecessors, if they got the chance, would be willing to admit. In confirmation one has but to glance at the mortality tables of the life-assurance companies.

FARMERS AND THE TITHE

IN almost every English county farmers are showing increasing resentment against tithes. Recently there have been numerous refusals to pay, followed by distraint on the farmers' goods. And now many of these forced sales have been declared by Mr. Justice Swift in the King's Bench Division to have been illegally executed.

Uncountably venerable, and undoubtedly complicated as regards their legal history, the principle upon which tithes are based is delightfully simple. "The labourer is worthy of his hire"—and if his labour is spiritual, to the exclusion of work necessary for material existence, then it becomes the duty of those for whom his spiritual work is given to provide that he keeps body and soul together.

HOW IT BEGAN.

In that way the fruits of the earth, no less than the consequences of man's toil in their production, came under the toll of the Church. There was the glebe allocated direct to the use of the incumbent of the parish church; and there was the tithe, or tenth part, of the yield of the agricultural produce of the rest of the land in the parish earmarked as belonging to him.

In simpler days, when the entire parish—landowners and labourers—lived under the ministrations of one parson, and when corn fetched good prices and was the staple industry of the countryside, this tribute in kind was nothing of a hardship. In its origin a voluntary gift, it had in a very early stage of English legal history become compulsory.

But its obligatory nature does not seem to have mattered until time brought other changes with greater potentialities of irritation. The growing sectarianism of the countryside cannot have increased the cheerful willingness of the gift. And the alienation, in certain cases, of tithes into lay hands, made possible—as we are told—by the dissolution of the monasteries, deprived of all sentimental reason such offerings, which thus became as impersonal and cold-blooded as a mortgage.

IRKSOME IN LEAN YEARS.

But the shoe must have really begun to pinch about a hundred years ago, when payment in cash took the place of payment in kind. The basis—of payment—was still corn, and the price of corn over a certain number of years governed the amount. In good years the sum could, no doubt, have been, and was, paid without difficulty. But the average process too often meant a substantial bill in lean years.

Matters came to a head in the post-war years, when the anchorage to corn as a standard of payment proved about as calamitous to the tithesman as the anchorage to gold has proved to the rest of the human race. It is true that the corn anchorage has now been abolished, and the tithe-rent charge put at a fixed figure, while a sinking fund has been instituted with a view to its redemption in certain instances. ## The Very Idea!

OUR BIOGRAPHIES

By Eddie Kelly, Who's Who!

EVERY newspaper office has its Morgue, in which is stored the biographies and histories of every person of note.

As soon as people leave this world of strife, all that is necessary is to dig deep down in the morgue, drag out the copy, blue pencil any unkind references, and publish the rest.

Which reminds us of the little girl who visited Happy Valley cemetery with her Mother. She scalded all the tombstones with in sight. Then after a pause—

"Mother," she asked, "where do they bury all the bad people?"

Naturally, in the Telegraph morgue, two or three drawers have had to be provided for persons whose surnames begin with the letter "K". This has happened ever since we came to Hongkong.

About the only people tag-let kept on are the newspaper writers themselves. For instance, we can tell you who it was you were out with the other night, while your wife was on a holiday in Shanghai. We could also tell you who your wife was out with while she was in Shanghai.

In response to repeated requests, we have arranged, after considerable research, a complete directory of the writers in Hongkong. If you don't believe us, ask them yourselves.

KELLY, EDWARD, born and bred in Australia, 1889; educ. Oz. and Far East; son of Edward, notorious bushranger; m. Arabella, thorough fault of his own; wife Pola Watkins, Mrs. Whistler, the Very Idea; invented Chit system 1932, abolished chit system 1933. Wears black and tan shoes. Recreations: Drinking, snoring at shroffs, drinking. Publications: "I.O.U."

MACWHIRTER, ROBERT: b. Scotland; educ. same place. Is dangerous when roused; killed his first editor, 1888. Shouted Edward Kelly one drink 1905. Fond of bitterness, but consorts with suspicious characters, being member of K.B.G.C. Recreations: Bawls, haggis, and keeping eye on Edward Kelly. Publications: "The Over-Over," "Hop Scotch," "Frog Beer in Hongkong." Club: A big one with knots on.

"CELLULOID & PREVIEWER" b. Hollywood Zoo, educ. same place, issue Gold Cups, Bouquets, Raspberries (mostly raspberries); m. Alexander Korda, 1932 div. came year; leaving shareholders in stocking factories. Possess many framed pictures of scantily dressed film stars. Raised in Y.M.C.A. Fond of figures; issue, every week. Publications: "Wattafirm, wattafirm!" "Bally who?" Recreations: Going to picture shows on free tickets, sleeping. Clubs: H.K.H., P.H., A.B.B., and several others.

PRO BON PUBLICO b. 1665 when newspapers first invented; issue: any at all; b. in Ford car, the Slaggerack, Scandinavia, just behind the sardine works; has blue eyes. Recreations: Writing to the Editor. Publications: "The Coal Dump," "The Cabaret," "The Water Shortage," "The Government," "The Bus Franchise," and several others.

HISTORICUS b. 1888 in Yorkshire, suburb of Lancashire; educ. Bramell Lane. Invented body-line and button-holes in coats, fond of roses. Publications: "Ika Moor Baht Tat," "The Red Rose of No Man's Land," "Yorkshire Puddings."

TELEGRAPH EDITOR: b. Shing Mun Dam; educ. Oxford; has been converted to Fascism. Recreations: Knocking back E. Kelly's applications for rise. Does not smoke, drink or swear; but has other vices. Plays poker with moderate success, losing only $30 last month. Clubs: none (married).

EARLY BIRD b. 1900 Happy Valley, will be buried in same place; privately educ. Prominent gold-fish breeder, owner of reserve ch. goldfish gelding "Chips." Also has several goldfish griffins. Plays mouth organ in secret; recreations: choir singing, catching worms. Sings in his bath tub. Fought in Boxing Champion-ships 1929; came out of hospital 1930. Wears red ties, Jaeger underpants and has been known to swear.

PATAUDI

Don't blame us for what follows:
How do you think he pronounced his name.
This bright young Mahal of cricketing fame?

What are its vowels? and can you guess
Which of the syllables one should stress?

Some people will say: Oh, ain't gaudy—
The jolly old Mahal of Pataudi.

Others: I hope there's not too rowdy,
A crowd at the Oval is great Pataudi.

Others again: I'm not a lady,
But I do admire this chap Pataudi.

And what do you think I heard last Saturday? I'm bound to see a knock by Saturday.

Well, that'll be all right (said Pataudi),
Now one of those what'll you of the

"I've really outgrown these things. I only play with them to keep in shape."

PREPARING FOR 1934 OLYMPICS

The stadium is located at Harrison Park near the boundary line between Manila and Rizal province. This field when finished will be complete in every detail. It will have facilities for soccer football, baseball, track oval, basketball, swimming pool, tennis courts and volleyball courts.

An addition to the standard swimming tank in the field is the diving tower, recently finished. The City of Manila has contributed P6,000 for the improvement of this swimming pool.

CONCRETE AND STEEL.

Work is in progress on the baseball grandstand which is of mixed steel and concrete. This grandstand will have a seating capacity of 8,000. Work on the running track is also well under way. The dimension of the track is being increased from 7 to 10 metres to accommodate seven lanes, while the track oval is to be reduced from 500 to 400 metres in order to conform with the track ovals in the provinces. In reducing the track oval to only 400 metres Dr. Ylanan said this is done in order to make the athletes in the provinces feel at home when they perform in the arena.

In November the construction of another steel and concrete grandstand will be started. This structure will measure about 150 metres to be built on the straight away track. It will have a seating capacity of 10,000 people.

The Rizal Memorial Field can be reached through the three thoroughfares leading from the heart of Manila. The field is only a little distance from the Taft Avenue extension and from A. Mabini. The road connecting San Andres is the nearest road to the field. Work on this road is now in progress.

Dr. Ylanan, national physical director and secretary-treasurer of the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation remarked that everything possible is being done to make the field one of the finest in the world.

He said that the entrance to the stadium from Vito Cruz street will be patterned after the front structure of the Metropolitan Theatre.

Four cases of typhoid with two deaths, and 49 deaths from tuberculosis, were reported to the local health authorities last week. On Tuesday there was a clean bill of health.

ROOSEVELT AND TARIFFS

SEEKING POWER FROM CONGRESS

Washington, Sept. 2. The Roosevelt administration is considering asking the next session of Congress, opening in January, for authority to negotiate commercial treaties embodying reciprocal tariff concessions, it was learned to-day.

The legislation would equip the State Department to negotiate reciprocal treaties planned in the administration programme of bolstering trade relations, particularly with Latin America countries, without submitting each one to Congress in advance. But Congress could veto any of them within a certain period.

Negotiations already have begun with Colombia and Brazil, with Argentina, Portugal and Sweden soon to follow.

The treaties in most cases are expected to provide tariff reductions and other concessions in the American market in return for concessions to American trade in the markets of the treaty nations.

Asking this power was on Roosevelt's programme for the recent special session of Congress, but the plan was given up because of the pressure to adjourn Congress in June before the world economic congress opened June 12 at London.

CONVICT BECOMES POLICE OFFICER

TO HELP STAMP OUT BUSHMAN TRIBE

Windhoek, British S.W. Africa. Hunted by the police, arrested, sent to prison, and then, a few months later, enrolled as a special constable.

This is the record of Bruno Lemke, perhaps better known as Ngovo, formerly white chief of a Bushman tribe.

Lemke fell foul of the police for big-game shooting without a permit, for which he was arrested and convicted.

Now he has been enlisted as a special constable in the South-West African Police on account of his wonderful ability as a desert man, his knowledge of the Kalahari from the Okavango to the Orange River, and the location of every water hole; his marvellous tracking abilities and, more important than anything else, his unique knowledge of the Bushmen, which he gained during his sojourn with them.

Lemke's enlistment is one of the results of discussions between the Department of Agriculture and the police whereby it has been decided to strengthen the existing police posts on the border between Buchuanaland and South-West Africa and establish others at various places.—Reuter.

FROM CONSTABLE TO SUPTD.

ROMANTIC RISE IN PALESTINE FORCE

Jerusalem. An Englishman, Constable J.P.T. Ford, has been appointed acting Assistant Superintendent of Police here.

He is the first constable to be promoted to commissioned rank in accordance with the recommendation made two years ago by Sir Herbert Dowling, Inspector-General of the Ceylon Police. Sir Herbert urged at the time that advancement should be available for constables of outstanding merit.

The number of British constables of public school education now in the Palestine police force is quite considerable. According to a statement here, the promotion of a man from within the force instead of sending out cadet officers from England shows that the Colonial Office has sufficient confidence now in the Palestine force, and is a tribute to the high standard of recruits joining in England.

The Hon. Mervyn Patrick Wingfield, only son and heir of Viscount Powercourt, joined the Palestine Police as a constable in August, 1932, and resigned later to marry Miss Sheila Beddington, of London.—Reuter.

MRS. MOODY RESTING.

Operation Not Considered Likely For Present.

San Francisco, Sept. 6. Mrs. Helen Willis Moody, who was admitted to the Stanford University Hospital on Saturday suffering from a dislocated vertebrae, is resting quietly and it is not considered likely that an operation will be necessary.—Reuter.

NEWCASTLE GET FIRST POINTS

ARSENAL WIN AND POMPEY DRAW

London, Sept. 6. Arsenal pleased their supporters at Highbury this evening when they beat West Bromwich by three goals to one to record their second win in three matches.

Newcastle obtained their maiden victory of the season at the expense of Blackburn, but Portsmouth, who started so well, received an unexpected check at Fratton Park, being held to a draw by Sunderland.

Visitors in the southern section of the Third Division had a good day. Norwich, Bristol Rovers, Gillingham and Bournemouth all made fruitful journeys, and Reading and Torquay were the only home clubs to win.

Chesterfield rattled up four goals against Wrexham and Gateshead showed improved form by holding Darlington to a draw of three goals each on the latter's enclosure.

Results as supplied by Reuter follow.

LEAGUE TENNIS

EASY WIN FOR RECREIO

IN "C" DIV.

Meeting in the "C" Division of the Lawn Tennis League on Tuesday, the Recreio, and Radio Sports Club played for league points, resulting in an easy win for the Recreio by eight sets to one.

The Radio turned out with only two pairs, thereby giving the Portuguese three sets. Without these, however, the Radio obtained the necessary five sets to win.

Scores: L. A. Carvalho and A. M. Silva (Recreio) beat Ma Kwong and G. Halford 6-3; beat Wm. Chanson and D. Waterlow 6-2. J. L. Xavier and A. M. Xavier (Recreio) beat Ma and Halford 6-3; lost to Chanson and Waterlow 5-7. A. A. Remedios and M. A. Oliveira (Recreio) beat Ma and Halford 6-2; beat Chanson and Waterlow 6-0.

CANTON AQUATICS

Provincial Meeting To Be Held

Since the announcement of the 6th Kwangtung Provincial Aquatic sports to be held in Canton shortly, many enthusiasts have shown keen interest and Commander-in-Chief Chan Chai-tong, Chairman Lin Yun-kai, Mayor Liu Chi-wen, Commissioner Tala Ying-chow, Admiral Cheung Chi-ying and various public bodies have presented many silver prizes.

Regulations for the contest have been drawn up and it is learned that contestants will be picked to represent Kwangtung from among those who do well in this for the coming National Aquatic Meet.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET EASY

oil. According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was easy yesterday. Business done 1,880,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market:

done 1,880,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: After weakness all the day long with losses as much as 6 points due to lack of demand the market rallied near the close on account of firmness in goldmining shares, oils and repeat stocks. Goldmining shares were firm on announcement that Alaska Juneau expected profits to increase 50 per cent due to the recent gold order. Firmness in oils was on account of advancing prices of crude oil. Repeat stocks were firm on account of the Vermont election. Our New York Office cable (This Morning) Stocks: The market showed excellent recuperative power after morning selling and oils were again impressive. Wheat: Declines developed better buying recovering much of the early losses. Drought continues. Buying also advisable. Cotton: The uncertainty of acreage remaining for cultivation after plow-up is causing wide variation in private crop estimates which now average 12,100,000 bales. There is less pressure and broader buying to-day partly on possibility of a lower Government estimate than generally expected and some buying is attributed to the Government. Our New York Office cable (Last night): Stocks: The market is steadier. Reaction confirms recent market pattern. Expect prices to hold approximately at the present level. Wheat: Liverpool colorist. Utter lack of buying interest is the depression factor. With news bullish believe buying will appear on further setback. Cotton: The market opened steadier on lighter hedge selling with trade apparently inclined to purchases at market rather than on downward scale. It is quiet and featureless.

Tie-Ideas.

Ideas about ties vary, but opinion is almost unanimous concerning the most pleasant place to choose the sort of ties men like to wear. For, as the accepted headquarters for good ties, Mackintosh's introduce new patterns practically every week... exclusive patterns expressing the latest ideas that are current in the West End of London... with the number of ties in each pattern deliberately restricted.

Your teeth need this extra protection

A tooth paste should do more than keep your teeth white and attractive, it should also keep the gums firm and free from pyorrhea, it should keep the whole mouth germ free and healthy.

This is particularly necessary in tropical climates where germs of disease increase so rapidly.

Pebeco, the tooth paste with the wonderfully refreshing taste, can give you this necessary protection.

HYDE-LAY NEW BOWLS CHAMPION

PLAYS CLEVERLY AGAINST LUZ

LOSER FORGETS HIS TACTICS

A SPECTACULAR LAST HEAD

HYDE-LAY SHOWS INITIATIVE

(By "Veritas")

A Hyde-Lay, playing the finest bowls of his career, was yesterday crowned the new lawn bowls champion of the Colony, when he beat R. F. Luz, a former holder of the title, by 21 shots to 15 in 20 heads.

It was not a brilliant exhibition of the game in the sense that the players would take each other out of shot wood with perfect deliveries, but Hyde-Lay did maintain a sufficiently high standard of accuracy, combined with skill and tactics, which not only earned him a meritorious success, but held the keen interest of the big crowd of spectators.

There were some very poor heads, but there were also a number of heads which did full justice to the importance of the occasion. The fact that Luz never, at any stage of the match, touched his best form, detracts nothing from the display of Hyde-Lay.

The K.C.C. representative played the type of game which would have been good enough to beat the Portuguese at his best.

FAVOURITE ENDS.

Both players seized on their favourite end early in the game and did most of their scoring on them. Hyde-Lay for instance showed more than a partiality for bowling from the Valley end. It was from here which he scored his three on the third head, four on the ninth and another four on the 13th. Actually he failed to register shots from this end only on four heads, and fourteen of his 21 shots were scored from there.

Luz preferred bowling from the road end. From here he scored seven shots on four heads. Yet it was from Hyde-Lay's favourite end that the loser obtained his four. He owed it to Hyde-Lay's tactical blunder rather than his LAWN BOWLS CHAMPIONSHIP.—Pictures taken at the Craigengower Cricket Club yesterday when the final of the lawn bowls championship was played. On left B. W. Bradbury and A. E. own bowling. Hyde-Lay left with the final wood had an open draw for first or second shot on the backhand, with his own wood covering the forehand draw. But he ignored the obvious, bowled forehand and was narrow.

Luz made the tremendous error practically throughout the game of allowing Hyde-Lay to retain open draws on the forehand. The winner early on revealed that this was his strong suit, and that if blocked, would be very unlikely to enjoy the same success on his backhand.

OBLIVIOUS TO TACTICS.

Luz, himself a powerful backhand bowler, appeared to become oblivious to tactics in his endeavour to find the green and strength. Had he changed his game Hyde-Lay might have found his task infinitely more difficult.

The last head proved that not only was Hyde-Lay a splendid fighter, but that he had sufficient initiative and courage to cut himself away from the text book and bowl according to his own ideas. He needed two to win and he obtained them thanks to a remarkable shot. There were many around the green who shook their heads sadly when they saw what decision the champion had made after an examination of the lie.

He had two courses open with his final wood; having already laid the shot. He could either play backhand to rest one of two woods in front of the jack, or attempt a straight draw on the forehand. On this side of the jack he was already laying-shot with. Luz's wood resting for second shot. A draw to the jack on the forehand even if wide would entail little more either taking Luz's wood out and thereby securing his two, or taking his own shot out, but leaving himself one. The chief danger of the shot was in taking the jack as Luz had two good back woods.

PULLS OFF COUP.

But Hyde-Lay had already found the green on his forehand.

and required only a slight reduction in weight for a clean draw for shot. He decided to attempt it and pulled off the coup with a brilliant wood which rested the jack.

It was about the only spectacular incident of the match, unless one excepts that disastrous ninth head for Luz. The Portuguese decided to try a short head, the only short head of the match, and Hyde-Lay showed his appreciation by taking a four—all beautifully placed woods within six inches of the jack.

This was another illustration of the somewhat casual way in which Luz played his game. He appeared to forget that the earlier heads indicated very clearly that his woods demanded a lot of green. Consequently when he came to the short head he was narrow with three woods. Neither did the four that Hyde-Lay scored all four shots on the forehand encourage Luz to take greater precautions.

The real value of Hyde-Lay's game was to be found in his accuracy. His last two woods on nearly every head were better than those of his opponent. Luz lacked finish to his game, whereas Hyde-Lay was most dangerous when bowling his fourth wood.

COATES BEATS BRADBURY.

Playing on the next rink for the third and fourth prizes, A. E. Coates defeated B. W. Bradbury by 21 shots to 12.

Coates was consistently good throughout, scoring on a dozen heads. Like Hyde-Lay, he had to thank his opponent for a three on one head. Bradbury decided to make it a very short head—almost the maximum—and Coates responded to the gesture with a three.

LORD NELSON'S LOGBOOK

RESCUED FOR THE NATION

LORD WAKEFIELD

London.
Lord Wakefield rescued for the nation the log-book kept by the sailing-master of the Victory, Nelson's famous flag-ship. Then he "rescued" the sword of honour, which the City of London presented to Nelson after the Battle of the Nile. Both these relics are now in the British Museum. Soon, beside the log of the Victory will lie the personal log, written in Nelson's queer left-handed script, which the Admiral kept during the five months preceding the Battle of Trafalgar. The book has already been handed over to the British Museum, and will be on view when it has been officially accepted by the trustees in October. Lord Wakefield bought the relic for £3,000 from Mr. George Eyre Matcham. Mr. Matcham is a descendant of Nelson's favourite sister, who inherited the book.

One of the strangest things about the book is that Nelson made the mistake of dating the first entry 1785 instead of 1805. It is thought that his mind must have been turned back to some personal incident 20 years before when he was writing.—Reuter.

WORLD CRISIS A WAY OUT

By FREDERICK COPE, A.M.I.E.E.

Mr. Cope's striking articles on the world economic crisis which were recently published in the Hongkong Telegraph are now available in pamphlet form.

One of the features, repaying study, is the close similarity between the plan of reform suggested by this local writer, and certain aspects of the Roosevelt recovery programme. The author's ideas are naturally far too advanced for active promotion at the present time, but they are particularly interesting in view of the fact that President Roosevelt, in striking out on a path of his own, has travelled in the same direction.

The pamphlet is one of forty-four pages and can be obtained from the South China Morning Post at a cost of—

CUBAN CIVIL WAR LIKELY

AMERICA MAY INTERVENE

New York, Sept. 6.
The spectre of civil warfare hangs over Cuba, consequent upon the second revolution and the seizing of power by an extremist junta, headed by a non-commissioned officer of the army. The likelihood of American intervention is admitted here and in Havana.

The American colony in Havana is most apprehensive, and arrangements are being made to concentrate the American nationals at a hotel within gun range of United States' warships in the harbour.

The purpose of the new revolt, according to insurgent soldiers, is to eradicate all the bad elements from the Government service. They declare that the real struggle is between youth and age.

Policy Tested.

In Washington it is felt that the United States is facing a true test of the whole of its Latin-America "hands off" policy.

President Roosevelt is watching developments with great concern.

The Navy Department has moved Atlantic units of the fleet to a position where, if necessary, they can land 2,700 men in Cuba within 48 hours.—Reuter.

MINISTER TO MEXICO.

GERMAN SONCUL-GENERAL IN SHANGHAI

Shanghai, Sept. 5.
The Evening Post learns that Baron Ruedt Von Collenburg, the German Consul-General in Shanghai, who is now in Germany on furlough, will be appointed Minister to Mexico City, to which place he will proceed without returning here.

The Evening Post says that this news has been received in Shanghai by private sources but, up to the present, the German Consul-General has received no notification on this subject.—Reuter.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

While it is true in the Constructive
One over One system of contract bidding that we do sometimes open third hand very weak and will open in fourth position with much less than the strength required to make a first or second hand opening bid, it does not necessarily follow, when your partner makes a third or fourth hand opening bid, that he does not hold any tricks.

If your partner makes a weak
third or fourth hand opening bid,
you give him a constructive response and he re-bids, even though it is only a re-bid in the same suit, you immediately know that your partner has a good five-card suit and that he has some definite side strength. Therefore from that point on you should forget that it was a third or fourth hand opening bid and now assume that the bidding is on a sound basis.

It was surprising the number of players who missed game on the following hand in a recent duplicate match.

The Bidding
South, West and North passed and East opened fourth hand with a bid of one diamond. South overcalled with one spade and West bid two diamonds.

This bid is constructive—remember that West could pass if he held a weak hand. North bid two spades and West bid three diamonds.

Right here is where East tried to tell his partner that he had a real hand.

South bid three spades. West had good control of the club suit,

SWEDISH EXPLORER TO AID CHINA

Peking, Sept. 6.
The famous Swedish explorer, Sven Hedin, who is a resident of Peking, has been engaged by the Nanking Government to lead a small Sino-Swedish expedition into Sinkiang for the purpose of surveying motor highways.

The Government intends to build roads into the interior which will facilitate trade between the more remote districts and the China seaports.

Leaving Kueihua in mid-October the party will travel westward by motor over the ancient silk route to Rome, the oldest and longest caravan route in the world.

The return journey will be made by the Imperial Road through Kansu, with Nanking as the destination.

The survey will require eight months to complete and the proposed highways when completed will be 2,000 miles long.—Our Own Correspondent.

MORTGAGED GODOWN AUCTIONED.

TWO BORROWINGS TO BE PAID OFF

By order of the second mortgage, No. 34, Belcher's Street, a general godown, was put up for auction in the China Auction Rooms yesterday afternoon, and was purchased by Mr. Kan Man-hing, the only bidder, for $30,000.

The property is sold subject to a transfer of the first mortgage and to the repayment of the principal and interest thereon, amounting to nearly $29,000. Liquidation of the first mortgagee's interest in the matter will have raised the actual payment by Mr. Kan to $59,000.

The property occupies an area of nearly 9,000 sq. ft., and is held on a 999-year lease.

U.S. RECOVERY.

BANKERS ACCUSE ROOSEVELT

Washington, Sept. 6.
Labour Day, besides marking the end of the first semester of the Roosevelt administration, is heralded here as the commencement of the second most critical test phase of the President's "new deal."

It is generally conceded that the last six months have seen the re-establishment of America's morale, and even if the full results expected from the present rehabilitation machinery are not achieved, there is no likelihood that it will be abandoned when Congress reassembles in January.

President Roosevelt's popularity is greater than ever and he himself is most satisfied with his achievements.

Up to now he has been able to claim the fixation of codes in virtually every industry and coal. He has succeeded in controlling cotton and wheat production and has re-established the confidence of and in the banks; he has eased the farm mortgage crisis and since April 4 wholesale commodity prices have advanced 15 per cent while farm prices have jumped over 34 per cent.

New Developments.

Latest developments include the creation of a technical board to aid the Federal Oil Administration; the decision of the Farm Administration to assist tobacco growers by levying a four cents per pound processing tax to compensate for the decrease in production; the decision of the five great cotton states to reduce the cotton crop, both for acreage and bales ginned, for the next two years.

Although the ordinary budget is virtually balanced, the extra-

RAIL DISASTER

COACHES TELESKOPIED IN COLLISION

New York, Sept. 6.
Fourteen persons were killed and 20 were injured, some of them fatally, when a freight train crashed into the rear end of the Erie express, the famous Chicago Flyer, last night.

The express had been brought to a standstill by signals near Binghamton, N.Y., when a heavy freight train crashed into its rear, telescoping several coaches.

A frightful scene followed. When rescue parties arrived they had to work by the light of flares and electric torches. They found the decapitated bodies of several persons.

Soldiers, policemen, firemen and doctors, as well as the ordinary railway rescue crews, laboured frantically to extricate the injured from the tangled wreckage of the cars. American sleeping coaches, Pullman cars, are built of steel throughout, save for the fittings.

An undamaged coach was converted into a surgery where the injuries of many were dressed and a number of amputation cases attended to. Priests were summoned to administer the last rites to the more gravely injured.—Reuter.

ordinary budget shows a large deficit.

Bankers' Angry.

President Roosevelt's appeal to the American Bankers' Association to grant credits which will enable industry to pay the increased costs of production under the new codes, has caused consternation among the financial men.

President Sisson, of the Bankers' Association, has declared that the administration's attempt to establish an alibi for its failure, by blaming the banks, could only end in exposure and discredit.—Reuter.

L. G. AND KITCHENER

LIBERAL LEADER'S "WAR MEMORIES"

CRITICISMS IN NEW BOOK

London, Sept. 7. Exceedingly scathing criticism of the late Lord Kitchener and other outstanding figures of the war years are uttered by Mr. Lloyd George in the first volume of his "War Memories," published to-day.

The book has been eagerly awaited. It was always expected that it would contain vigorous commentaries upon Mr. Lloyd George's contemporaries in the early days of the war and the first volume is not disappointing. The volume details events until 1915.

WAR OFFICE COMPLAINT

Mr. Lloyd George pungently attacks many generals and alleges that the War Office was a "perpetual source of obstruction" when he set out to organise the Ministry of Munitions. He relates that after the Battle of Neuve Chapelle, one of the most sanguinary of the early days of the war, Sir John French's urgent plea for more ammunition was met by the complaint that the artillery had used thirteen rounds per gun daily.

KITCHENER'S PRESTIGE

Referring to the decline in Lord Kitchener's prestige, Mr. Lloyd George reveals that the Field-Marshal never knew that the Germans and the Austrians had crossed the Danube until twenty hours after the news of the advance had reached the War Office.

When Carson heard of this at a Cabinet meeting he puffed Mr. Lloyd George a note saying: "K doesn't read telegrams and we do not see them. It is intolerable."—Reuter.

THE SITUATION AT FOOCHOW

CHINESE TROOPS ARRIVE

It was learned this morning that the Fuchen situation is still considered to be serious in official circles, and although very little reliable information has been forthcoming from the area it was stated to-day that six Chinese gunboats moved to Foochow in the last two days.

Troops are being rushed to Foochow in gunboats, one report stating that several hundreds were landed yesterday. No further details have been received locally as to the movements of the Communists or the XIXth Route Army.

DEATH OF LORD GREY

NOTED STATESMAN PASSED AWAY

IN EARLY HOURS OF THIS MORNING

(Our Own Correspondent).

London, Sept. 7. Viscount Grey of Falloden, one of Britain's greatest elder statesmen, passed away this morning five minutes after six o'clock.

He was seventy-one years of age and had been seriously ill for a little over a week. For a while there was hope of his recovery, but he suffered a relapse on Monday and never again regained consciousness.

He was leader of the Liberal Party in the House of Lords until August, 1924, and he published his memoirs in the following year. He was elected Chancellor of Oxford University in 1928.

SPEEDY RISE TO FAME

Lord Grey entered Parliament as Liberal member for Berwick-on-Tweed in 1885 and continued to represent this constituency until July, 1916. Early in his career, Gladstone said of him, "I never remember to signal a capacity for parliamentary life, and so small a disposition for it," alluding to Lord Grey's fondness for tennis and angling.

He was appointed under-secretary for Foreign Affairs (1892-6) with Lord Rosebery as his chief, and he speedily acquired a reputation for a comprehensive grasp of problems, tact, diplomatic skill, and sound judgment.

In 1897 he was Chairman of a Commission appointed to report on economic conditions and the prospects of the West Indies.

ELEVEN YEARS AS FOREIGN SECRETARY

From 1905 to 1916 he was Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and it was during his tenure of office that the Triple Entente was developed. In 1906, conversations were begun with France as to measures which would be necessary in case of Germany's violation of Belgian neutrality. In 1907 he concluded the Anglo-Russian agreement, which settled outstanding Asiatic rivalries.

Lord Grey added to his reputation during the Morocco crisis in 1909 and by inducing the belligerents in the Balkan War to sign the Treaty of London on May 30, 1913.

PEACE ADVOCATE

His earnest efforts to preserve peace after the Austrian ultimatum to Serbia are well known, and the speech which he delivered on August 1 defining Britain's attitude was described as "masterly." Impaired vision necessitated a brief retirement from active duties in June 1915, and on Asquith's resignation in December 1916, Lord Grey retired from the Foreign Office.

FAMOUS PAMPHLET

He became an ardent advocate of the League of Nations, and issued a famous pamphlet in 1918. During 1919, when his eyesight trouble had become aggravated, he appeared only occasionally on the public platform.

In October of the same year he went to United States on a special mission.

In 1912 he received the signal honour of being created K.G., and he was created Viscount in July, 1916.

H.M.S. CORNWALL'S DEPARTURE

H.M.S. Cornwall leaves the China Station for England for re-commission and refit to-morrow morning at 8 a.m., and the ships' companies of all warships, at present in port will assemble on the North Arm of the Naval Dockyard to wish her bon voyage with three cheers. The Cornwall will remain at her buoy during the ceremony flying her paying-off pennant.

FATE OF NANCHANG CAPTIVES

Release Expected To Come To-day

Newchwang, Sept. 7. Negotiations for the release of the British officers who were kidnapped at the end of March from the S.S. Nanchang, are reported to have terminated successfully, at long last.

The negotiations have been conducted by the Japanese gendarme chief, Captain Obata, who states his belief that the release of the captives may be expected to take place this morning.—Reuter.

SUPER MILKMEN

BRITISH FARMERS IN FAVOUR

OVERWHELMING VOTE

London, Sept. 6. By an overwhelming majority, 150,000 farmers of England and Wales have declared themselves in favour of the Government's milk marketing scheme, under which the sale and the collection of milk is to be controlled by a Board.

The result of the poll of the farmers taken last week on the proposed formation of the National and Regional Milk Pools was announced to-day by the National Farmers Union, as follows:

In favour, 96.42 per cent.

Against, 3.58 per cent.

On the basis of the figures declared by the Registrars of producers, the number of cows, on August 19th last was 1,556,858. Registered producers who voted in favour of the scheme possess 96.61 per cent. of the cows, and those who voted against own 3.39 per cent.

The Government will now consider the applications of those who responded to the call for Administrative Officers.

The manager, whose salary is to range from £5,000 to £7,500, must be between the ages of 40 and 65. This super milkman must have wide experience of organisation and administration.

TWICE PREMIER'S SALARY

At the maximum salary he will be paid nearly twice the amount received by the Prime Minister.

The four other super milkmen are to be:

Accountant (35 to 45), salary £2,500 to £3,000;

Registrar and Statistician (35 to 45), salary £1,000 to £1,250;

Secretary (35 to 48), salary £2,000 to £2,500;

Marketing Officer (40 to 55), salary £2,500 to £3,000.

ALLEGED ATTACK ON NAZI BY REDS

Men in Detention Made to Suffer

Berlin, Sept. 6. Eighty Communists, confined in a concentration camp at Wittmoor, near Hamburg, have been placed in solitary confinement for three days, as retaliation for an attack on a Nazi storm trooper by alleged Communists.

Hot meals will not be supplied and the men will have to sleep on plank beds without blankets.—Reuter.

ON ISLAND ONLY

KOWLOON TO GET TEN FOR THE PRESENT

FURTHER CUTS POSSIBLE

Continued absence of rain—only 2.03 inches have fallen since 10 a.m. on July 31—has made essential further restrictions in the hours of water supply on the island as from Saturday.

At present, a ten hours' supply is being maintained. On Saturday this will be reduced to six hours' daily and if the drought continues, the Colony must be prepared for even more drastic rationing.

Kowloon's supply will not be affected for the present, but residents must be prepared for further restrictions soon if the situation does not improve.

PEAK VARIATION

An official notification issued to-day shows that a distinction is being made concerning the hours of supply to the Peak and those for other districts.

In the Peak District, the following hours will apply:

6 a.m. to 9 a.m.

5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

In other districts, the hours of supply will be from 6 a.m. to 9 a.m.

4.30 p.m. to 7.30 p.m.

FAIR WEATHER

The Royal Observatory reports that the anticyclone has moved rapidly eastward and pressure is now highest over Central Japan; it is relatively low over the China Sea, the Philippines and the Pacific to the eastward. A depression is situated to the north-east Hokkaido. Local forecast:—East winds, moderate; fair.

CATHEDRAL FUND

LATEST LIST OF CONTRIBUTIONS

Contributions are coming in steadily for the St. John's Cathedral Restoration Fund, well over a thousand dollars having been subscribed since the appeal was launched.

The total cost of urgent repairs to the Cathedral structure will, however, be at least $5,000, possibly more.

Donations should be sent to the South China Morning Post, Ltd. or to Mr. A. Brearley, of the Chartered Bank.

A mistake was inadvertently made in the list of contributions published yesterday. The donor of the cheque for $100 was Mr. F. G. Sale, not Mr. Gale.

BIG HEATH FIRES

TROOPS IN GAS MASKS FIGHT FLAMES

BRITAIN'S HEAT WAVE SEQUEL

Troops stripped to the waist, and wearing steel helmets and gas masks, were again engaged to-day in fighting great heath fires along the borders of Hampshire and Surrey.

The countryside for nearly eight miles had been burning in a great fire which broke out and spread rapidly last night, but although its progress was stopped by the efforts of the troops, police and volunteer civilians, smouldering patches again broke out into flame in several places to-day, notably along the Ringwood-Wimborne Road.

Fire Brigades engaged on the outbreak are using thousands of feet of hose but the scarcity of water which contributed to the fire also adds to the difficulties of the fire fighters.

Troops are patrolling all the areas where further outbreaks are likely and will remain on duty throughout the night.

Smoke clouds from the heath lands can be seen for many miles.—British Wireless.

YELLOW RIVER FLOODS

$10,000,000 LOAN FOR RELIEF

Shanghai, Sept. 7.

It transpires that the Nanking Financial Ministry has reached tentative arrangements with eight leading Chinese banks, including the Bank of China, the Bank of Communications and Yen Yeh Bank, for a loan of $10,000,000 to be entirely devoted to emergency relief in the flooded areas along the Yellow River. This loan is to be secured on customs surplus and repaid in a period of twelve months.—Central News Agency.

GRAVE DISORDER RUMOURED

OUTCOME OF THE HURRICANE

Barbados, Sept. 6.

H.M.S. Danae, of the West Indies cruiser squadron, has been ordered to proceed immediately to Nassau in the Bahamas, where it is rumoured that troubles have broken out following the hurricane.

Seven were killed there and in nearby islands. Damage was extensive including the wrecking of five schooners.

One man was killed and more than 60 hurt in addition in the city as the gale, reaching 100 miles an hour, attacked buildings, signs and trees, and flooded many streets.

It is believed that looters have been found pillaging damaged premises and have come into collision with the authorities.—Reuter.

PRESIDENT LINER COLLIDES

TANKER SUNK OFF CAROLINA

SHIP SOON A MASS OF FLAMES

New York, Sept. 2.

Thirty-six men were saved last night when the coastwise tanker Coldwater burst into flames and sank after colliding with the China-bound Dollar steamship liner President Wilson, about 200 miles off the North Carolina coast. The bows of the President Wilson were damaged and the ship proceeded to Norfolk, Virginia, to-night for repairs.

Captain Makepeace Ridley, the President Wilson's skipper, sent an account of the disaster to the Associated Press by wireless while on the way.

"Last night about 11 o'clock 80 miles south of Cape Hatteras in a sudden cloudburst of rain the President Wilson collided with the Coldwater," Captain Ridley said.

"The Coldwater's cargo deck and holds immediately took fire and soon the ship was a mass of flames, sinking within an hour. All on board were saved."

"The steamers Gulf Breeze, Christy Payne and J. C. Donnell stood by until assured all were being saved and no help was required. The President Wilson's bows were damaged and the ship is proceeding to Norfolk safely, expecting to arrive this evening."

The Coldwater was a vessel of 3,131 net tons, 200 feet long, built in 1920 and operated by the South Atlantic steamship company. Her home port was Savannah, Ga.

U.S.S. MINNEAPOLIS TAKES WATER

Philadelphia, Sept. 6. The $11,000,000 cruiser Minneapolis, the thirteenth of the eighteen 10,000-ton cruisers allowed under the London Treaty, was launched here to-day.—Reuter.

DEVELOPMENT PROJECT

CAFETERIA IN NEW HANDS

SECOND REPULSE BAY

Castle Peak may become another Repulse Bay in the facilities provided, if the proposals of Mr. R. G. Jones, a newcomer to the Colony, come to fruition.

Negotiations are now in progress for the taking over by Mr. Jones of the Cafeteria and its development into a more pretentious hostelry than it can now claim to be, with all the amenities of a modern hotel, though on a small scale at the beginning.

Extensions are likely to come later, together with schemes for development of the sea-front along modern lines.

For years, residents have looked upon Repulse Bay very much as the only place to speak, on the beach, overlooking that on the mainland at Castle Peak there is a second region capable of the fullest development as a pleasure resort, within easy access by both motor and lanch and ideally situated at a half-way point for people making the tour of the mainland.

The natural facilities offered by the locality are such as to fire the imagination, and Mr. Jones who comes with a mind fresh, receptive to new impressions and ideas, has been quick to see the possibilities.

Mr. Jones went out to Castle Peak, saw and acted, and he has now a definite scheme to offer.

CAFETERIA DEVELOPMENT

He will develop the Castle Peak bathing beach, as the basis of the project, and, to that end, will soon make a start if negotiations with the Cafeteria on which he is engaged turn out favourable.

The Cafeteria is a two-storey building belonging, it is understood, to a retired Cantonese General, who has left his family in charge.

It carries on a catering business in the ground floor, while the upper storey is being used by the family as dwelling quarters.

The building is ideally situated but its full possibilities have never been made use of.

HIGHEST TESTIMONIALS

Mr. Jones was in the catering partment of the C.P.R. for a great many years, and at one time was Secretary of the Kobe Club.

He has come to Hongkong with the highest testimonials, both as to integrity of character and as to experience in the line in which he is particularly interested.

With an initial outlay for needed improvements, backed by his long experience, he believes he can make a decided success of Castle Peak beach, as a pleasure and recreational resort.

The precise details of the scheme have not been finally worked out, the project still being in the embryo stage, but it is interesting to note that Mr. Jones's appeal is being considered at the Licensing Sessions arranged for to-morrow.

THE NEW COIFFURE

(From a Paris Correspondent.)

The hair-line has changed. Hair is thinned out, cut short at the back, parted at one side, and softly waved to suit the face. The ends are now brought to the front over the ears, and rolled into a curl. The Parisienne favours groups of flat, hard, stiff curls, either on the forehead or the temples. Hair appears to be etched to the head in a fashion that is flat but entirely feminine. Every hairdresser favours the thinning of hair and tapering for the new mode, especially those of shorter length hair.

The crescent parting is one of the novelties best suited to a girl with oval features. It is just what its name implies—crescent-shaped, beginning at the crown and continuing to the neckline, the hair over one side of the face being combed out into feather edges. The diagonal bang across the forehead is another form of original twist to the bob.

TIMELY AND TIDE-Y

Maureen O'Sullivan

Hollywood.—The Hollywood stars know that the old-fashioned materials are "just right" this year.

Maureen O'Sullivan has a bathing suit of blue, yellow and white plaid gingham. The suit is lined with wool jersey which keeps Maureen warm in spite of the fact that cotton sounds as if it would be pretty cold when the winds blow on the beach.

The shorts are fastened at the sides with glass buttons and the top of the suit goes up around her neck—halter fashion. Mae Clark wears a linen ensemble with white skirt and square collared blue jacket. Her sailor hat is made of blue linen.

Dolores Del Rio wore a very fine black and white checked cotton broadcloth suit. The jacket had a trim little neckline and the sleeves were bouffant type.

Dolores topped her cotton costume with a little black and white fabric-hat.

Janet Gaynor wore an organdie tailored suit. Her gloves, gauntlet type, were of the same material as the suit. Her hat was white pique.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Useful Tips for Your Chinese Servants

Puddings are better steamed than boiled.

They should stand after being cooked for ten minutes before turning out.

Add a few drops of vinegar to the water in which potatoes are boiling. This makes the potatoes a good colour.

Remove the dust from padded cushions with a furniture brush or vacuum cleaner. Wash the wicker-work with warm soapy water to which a little borax has been added. Rinse with plenty of cold water. Dry out of doors if possible. If the wicker is discoloured, rub over with lemon juice after rinsing.

One of the greatest aids to lighten the labour of washing-day, and ensuring that the work is carried out efficiently, is a plentiful supply of hot water. The best way to secure all the hot water necessary is to have a gas-heated boiler installed. This is fitted with a tap to draw the water off, and placed so that the water from a cold tap runs directly into it, and thus the work of filling and emptying a boiler is considerably lessened.

Beetroots should be put into boiling water to which a lump of salt has been added. This helps to keep them a good colour. Before cooking, the top should be carefully wrung off not too near the beet, as if the skin is damaged in the slightest it will lose colour while cooking. Never cut the top with a knife, as this makes them bleed. The beetroots will skin more easily if put into cold water after cooking.

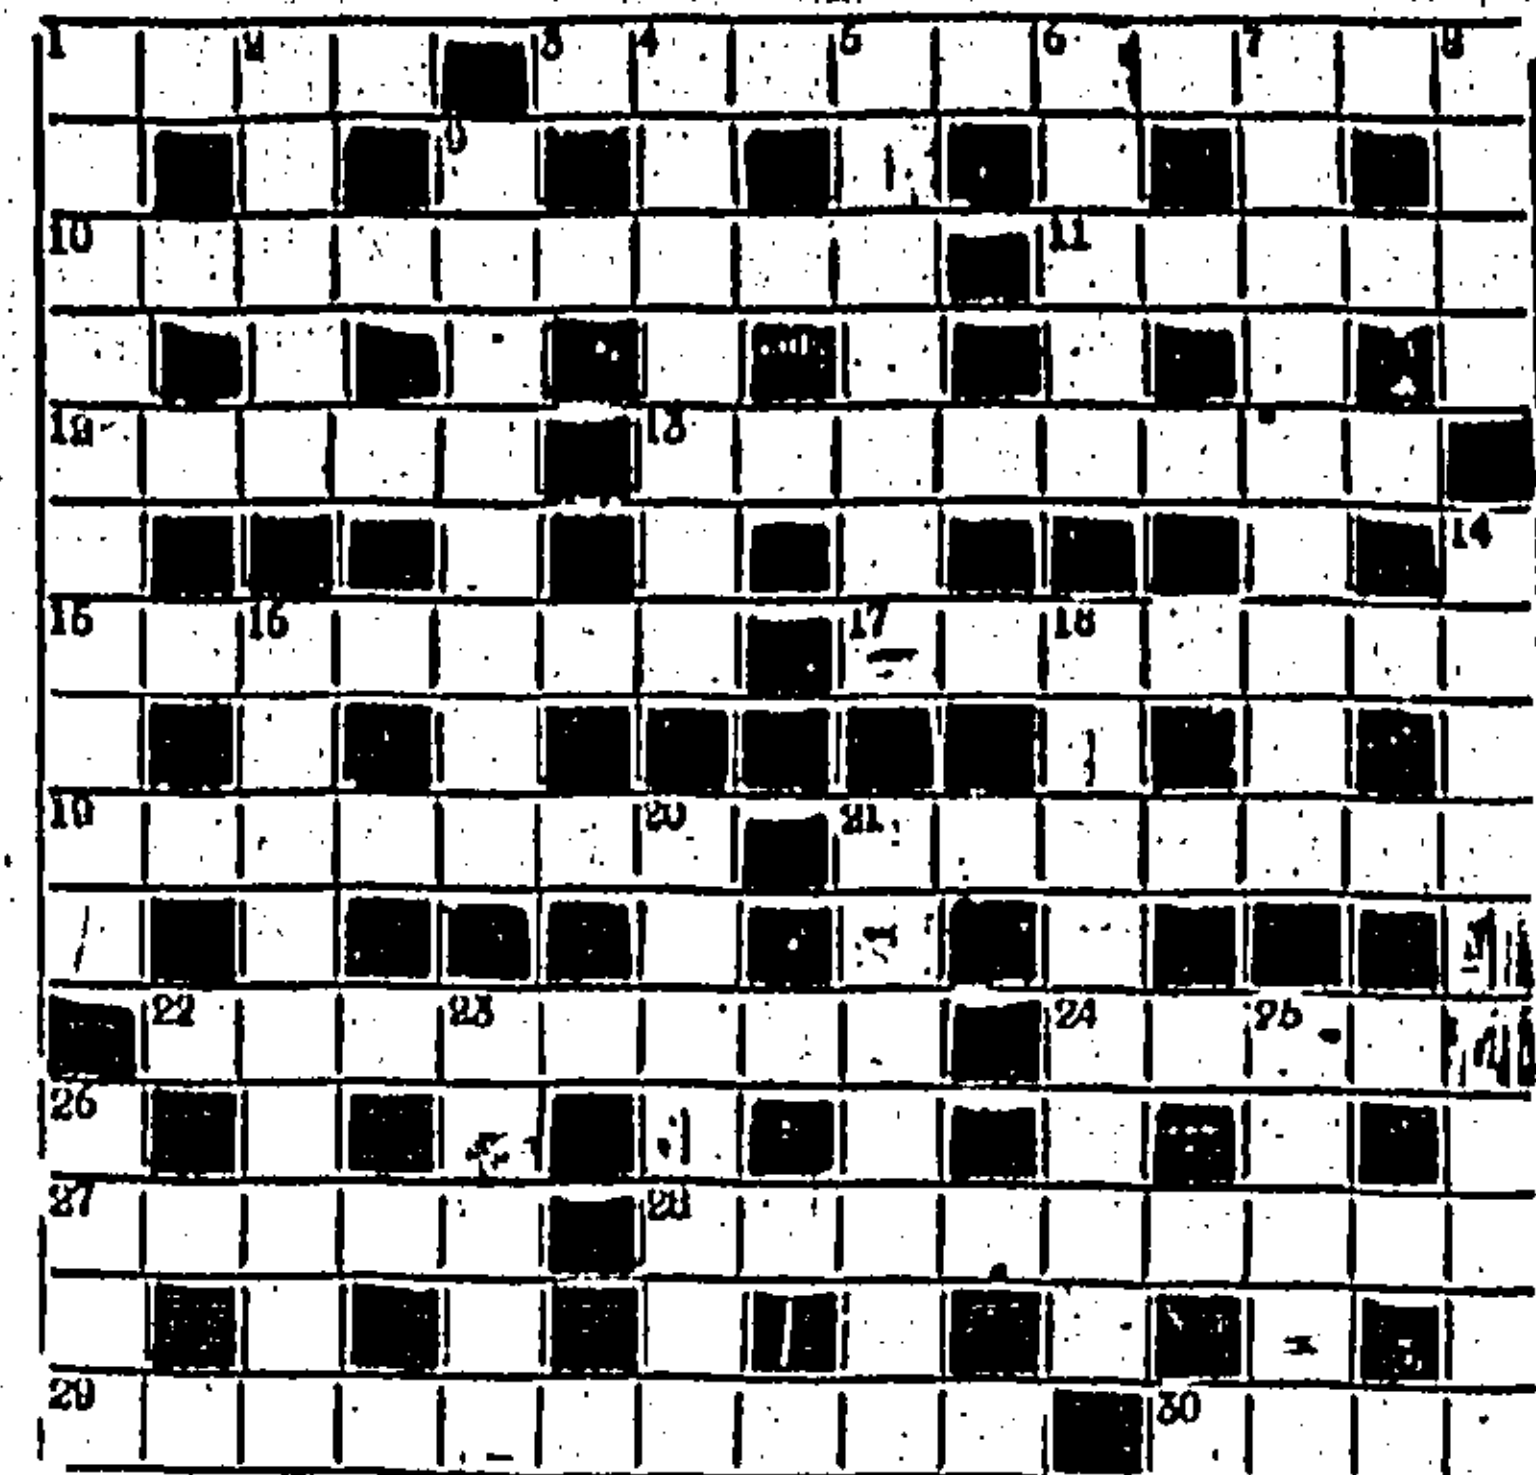

charming ensemble of ivory elephant crepe, trimmed with crystals, and a smart beret of the same material with a tulle veil. Her bouquet was of white gladioli.

Her mother was attired in a lace ensemble artistically carried out in beige and tangerine silk lace. She wore a French hat to tone, and carried a bouquet of flame coloured gladioli. The bride's going away dress was a delightful creation of sapphire blue and dove, after a model by Jean des Voynes. Her hat and shoes were also of these shades.

All three dresses were "Eunice" creations.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

EVE HAYLES, pretty assistant to EARLE HAINES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, marries DICK RADELL, construction superintendent. He wants her to give up her job but she refuses. Eve does not want her employers to know she is married, so they keep the marriage secret several months. At Christmas they announce it. They spend a brief vacation at the home of Eve's parents.

Back at the office MAYRA VELD, fashion artist, and ARLENE SMITH, stenographer, greet Eve secretly. Eve knows that MONA ALLEN, the new copy writer, dislikes her and is trying to cause trouble for her. The office boy tells Eve that Mona hopes to get her job.

CHAPTER XV

The office boy's warning, "Don't let Miss Allen get your job; she's counting on it," was still echoing in Eve's ears when the buzzer summoned her to Mr. Barnes' office. Her heart seemed to skip a beat as she entered the room.

The advertising manager's greeting was pleasant enough but brief. "I need hardly say," he told her frankly, "that I should have hesitated to recommend you for Miss Marshall's place had I known at the time of your marriage. But since you have started the work you may continue for the present and we'll see how it goes. However, the situation comes down to this; Bixby's will permit no divided interest. We will tolerate no deviation from the standard of excellence which heretofore has marked your work."

Considering his natural brusqueness, Eve felt that Barnes had been fairly diplomatic. But he had made clear the fact that she was still on trial at Bixby's instead of being firmly established. The least indication of carelessness on her part would be sure to be attributed to her marriage. Barnes' statement, together with Charles' warning about Mona's designs, showed Eve clearly that there must be no let-down in her work.

She realized, too, that she had underestimated Mona. The girl had ability of a sort. And she had a way of flattering men that Eve knew sometimes advanced a woman in the business world more rapidly than did hard work, even with such clear-headed, fair-minded men as Earle Barnes and Mr. Bixby.

Eve's code forbade trying to take the place of an established worker. Mona obviously had no such scruples. Well, Eve decided, it was of no use to borrow trouble. So long as the girl played reasonably fair Eve would take no notice of her antagonism. To do otherwise would create an unpleasant situation in the office. The Monas of the world usually married early and marriage probably would eliminate this particular one from Bixby's. Eve was quite sure the other girl would seize upon the first excuse to quit work. Meanwhile she was likely to make complications in a situation which, Eve felt, had quite enough difficulties already.

That evening Mrs. Brooks was watching for Eve when she arrived home. Mrs. Brooks brought forth two gift boxes which had been delivered that day.

"Candlesticks from Marya and a Venetian glass bowl from Arlene!" exclaimed Eve as she lifted the gifts from their tissue paper wrappings. "The darlings—I want to have a party for them!" she told Dick.

"We ought to celebrate New Year's Eve with a watch party," he suggested.

And so next morning Eve invited the girls to her home for a celebration on New Year's Eve. With a burst of generosity she invited Mona Allen also.

"Delighted," drawled Miss Allen. "I'll bring my boy friend, if you don't mind."

"Eve," spoke up Arlene impetuously, "won't you ask that Mr. Bliss in the rug? I've had a crush on him ever since I came to Bixby's but I haven't had a chance to make the slightest impression. Do that favour for me, won't you, dear?"

Eve agreed. She halted after she had invited 20 guests. There really was a limit to the number the apartment could seat comfortably.

Thursday evening the box of presents from home awaited Eve and Dick when they reached the apartment. "Guess it was worth while spending all that time packing them," Dick commented as he lifted the wedding and Christmas gifts from the excelsior. "There's not a single thing broken!"

He set up the radio and the new lamp while Eve tried to decide where the other things should go. She surveyed the new possessions with critical eyes.

"Now if we only had that Pennsylvania water bench," she said, "to display this colourful china and glass and that antique chest of drawers to fill this wall space this room would have real atmosphere. You remember, Dick! The things I wanted in that little antique shop in Tamkinville? And if we're going to serve 20 Monday night I ought to have that nest of tables we saw at Martin's, too."

She hoped Dick would write out a cheque and tell her to send for the antiques but he gave no sign that he had heard what she said. With Eve, to decide that she needed and wanted a thing was to decide she must have it. Next morning, therefore, after Dick had gone to work she took inventory of the household finances. Two days before Dick had given her a cheque for the rent and another for food expenditures for the coming month. The two cheques would pay for the antiques and leave enough for the party refreshments and flowers. On her way to the office Eve telegraphed the money to the antique dealer and instructed him to send on the pieces he had put aside for her.

At noon she went to Martin's, opened a charge account and ordered the nest of tables sent home. She felt very business-like, very efficient. It worried her, however, that Martin's credit manager asked the name of her husband's employers and of his bank as well as her own. She intended to pay for the tables, a little each week, from her own earnings and she did not see why Dick should know anything about it.

The cheque for the rent and the money for meat and groceries, Eve put out of her mind. The rent was not yet due and there would be time enough to worry about that after the party. Dick probably would be reasonable about the matter after he knew the things were bought and saw how much the new purchases improved the apartment.

The day of the party Eve awakened feeling tired and with a sense of foreboding.

She would have been glad to remain at her home in order to prepare for the party. The fact that she was tired emphasized the irony of having to sit for eight hours in an office where, as luck would have it, there was very little to do.

Mona Allen was elsewhere in the store most of the day, dallying longer than necessary over a few simple errands. Arlene came back from an unusually long lunch period with her head topped by stiff black waves. Her face was glowing and her nails very pink.

"All set for the big time!" she announced. "I can scarcely wait until to-night. I went through the rug department just to have another look at Mr. Bliss. He didn't notice me of course. Eve, you were a perfect darling to invite him to your party. Honestly I do think he's the handsomest thing!"

Eve smiled wanly and ran a fresh sheet of paper into the typewriter. She wrote half a line and x'd it out. After three more starts she crumpled the paper and threw it into the wastebasket. She hadn't a single original thought, she told herself, and it was no use trying to write. She longed to lie down and relax so she might feel refreshed for her duties as hostess that evening. And she was becoming more worried every moment over the antiques.

Dick telephoned in the middle of the afternoon and suggested dropping in at the Old Mill for dinner on their way home. Eve was glad she would escape cooking and washing the dishes afterward.

When they arrived home at a quarter to seven a strange sight greeted them. Stacked up inside the hall were the water bench, the chest of drawers and the nest of tables, topped off by a great bunch of evergreen boughs from Mrs. Brooks' trees.

"What's all this?" Dick frowned as he pushed the furniture away from the door and inserted the key.

"Oh, Dick, I meant to tell you—I sent for those antiques at Tamkinville! You remember how we thought they would just fit into the decorative scheme of this lovely old house?" Her heart thumped.

"Yes, I remember," answered Dick. "But nobody said anything about buying them."

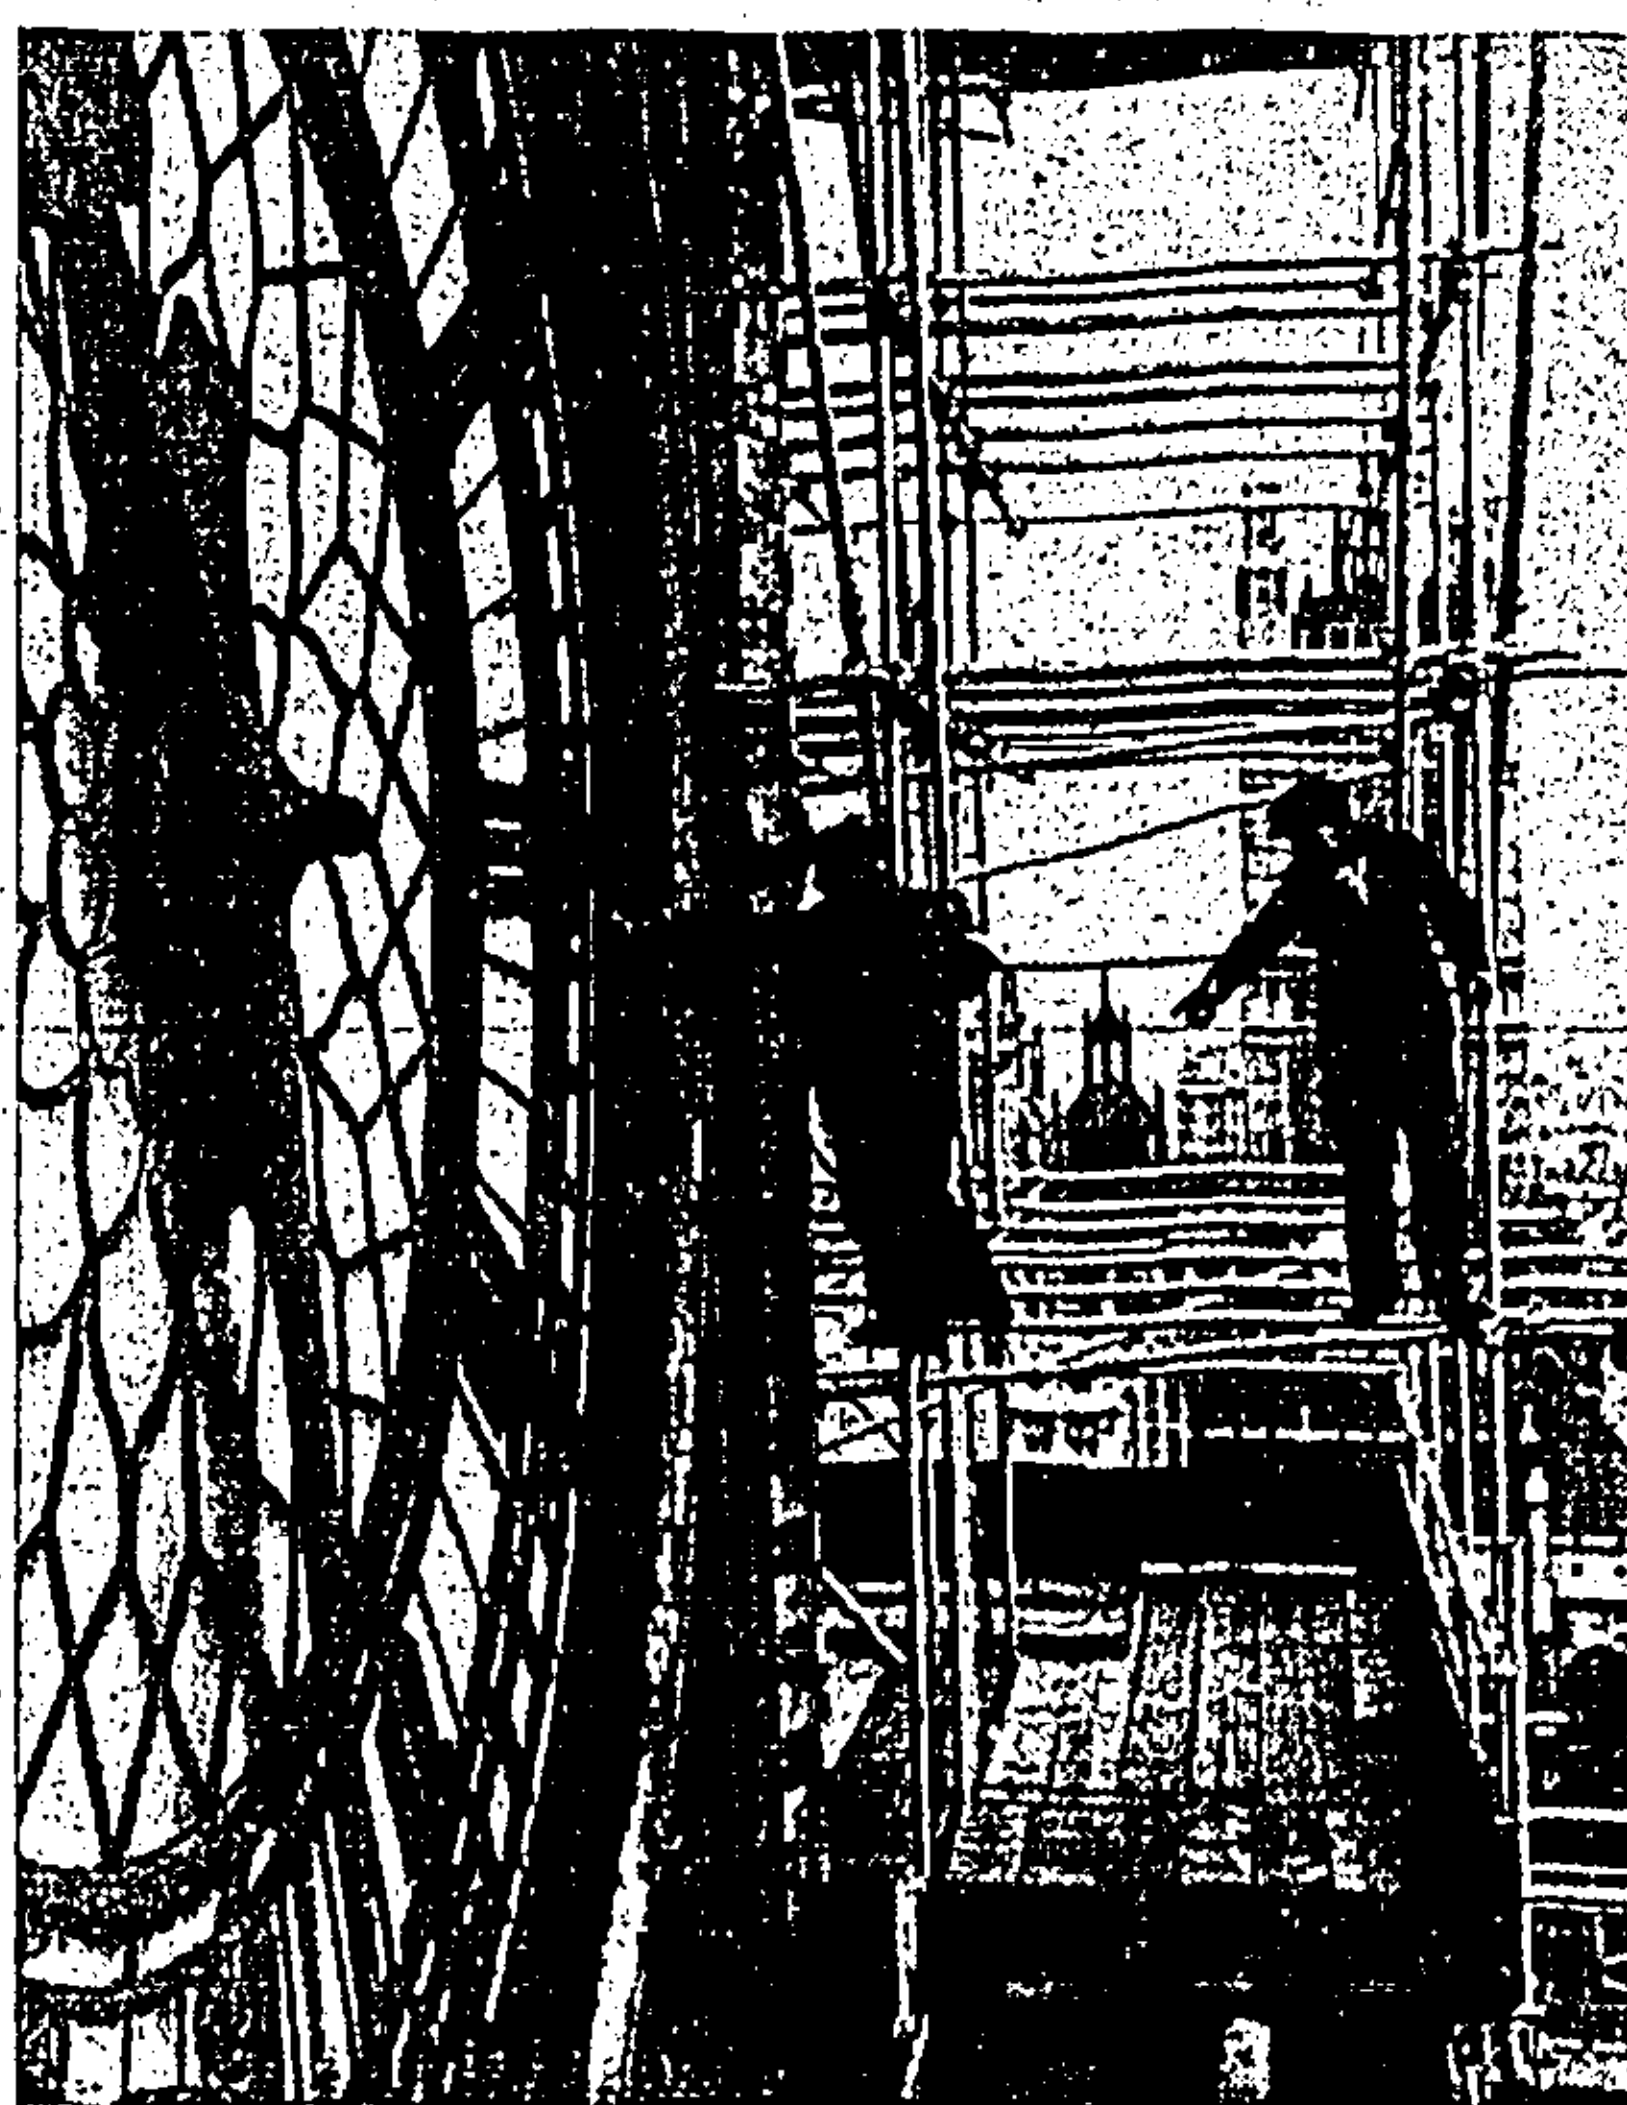

He was silent as he brought the furniture into the apartment. He was silent as he followed Eve's directions about setting it in place.

The ringing of the telephone interrupted them and Eve answered. It was Mona Allen.

For lack of a few gallons of gasoline, the daring east-west Atlantic flight of James and Amy Molison ended in the mud of a Bridgeport, Conn., swamp. Here is the wreckage of their plane "Searfarer." Forced to land 80 miles from their goal after a 39-hour flight from Pendine Sands, Wales, the weary aviators overshot the landing-field. Both suffered minor injuries in the crash.

BANKERS ACCUSE ROOSEVELT

Washington, Sept. 6.
Labour Day, besides marking the end of the first semester of the Roosevelt administration, is heralded here as the commencement of the second most critical test phase of the President's "new deal."

It is generally conceded that the last six months have seen the re-establishment of America's morale, and even if the full results expected from the present rehabilitation machinery are not achieved, there is no likelihood that it will be abandoned when Congress reassembles in January. President Roosevelt's popularity is greater than ever and he himself is most satisfied with his achievements.

Up to now he has been able to claim the fixation of codes in virtually every industry save coal. He has succeeded in controlling cotton and wheat production and has re-established the confidence of and in the banks; he has eased the farm mortgage crisis and since April 4 wholesale commodity prices have advanced 15 per cent, while farm prices have jumped over 34 per cent.

Although the ordinary budget is virtually balanced, the extraordinary budget shows a large deficit.

Bankers' Angry.
President Roosevelt's appeal to the American Bankers' Association to grant credits which will enable industry to pay the increased costs of production under the new codes, has caused consternation among the financial men.

IRISH FREE STATE

NEW PARTY MANIFESTO ON FRIDAY

Dublin, Sept. 5.
General O'Duffy returned to Dublin to-day for a conference with the officers of his organisation and those of the Cosgrave and Centre parties.

It is expected that the new United Irish Party will issue a manifesto on Friday.

Do you wake up tired . . . . .

Or radiant . . . eager—really vital looking?

Whether you know it or not,
there is a difference in the kind of sleep you get—from different mattresses.

A MATTRESS
. . . . . Can Make
This Difference in a
Woman's Face . . .

837 Inner Springs
in Individual Pockets

Scientific observations have proved that you cannot get completely rested on a lumpy or a sagging mattress.

Feeling around all night for a comfortable position . . . lying huddled in a hollow. Things like this leave nerves and muscles only part-way rested.
And the lines they write on your face are known as lines of "mattress fatigue."

But there IS a mattress that is scientifically built for completely relaxing sleep—the Simmons Beautyrest Mattress.

In this famous mattress are 837 tiny coils of finely tempered steel, each in its individual muslin pocket.

They buoy you up. You feel no pressure. No restriction. You can turn in your sleep without knowing it! Every inch of you gets gloriously relaxed!

GO SEE this wonderful mattress this very day.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1933.

THE COLONY'S BUDGET

The highly healthy state of the Colony's finances lends an interest to the forthcoming presentation of the Budget, not usual to the annual stocktaking. In a year of business depression, with intensive competition carving deeply into the commercial profits which might have been made despite smaller turnovers, the Treasury has steadily increased its surplus and the balance on the right side exceeds the sixteen million dollar mark. If revenue continues to come in at the same rate, new records will be established, although the principal factor in the flourishing condition of the Treasury is, of course, the rise in dollar exchange, making possible a great saving in salaries, for instance, as compared with the Budget Estimates. The position is highly gratifying but it throws a greater responsibility than usual upon the framers of the Budget for 1934. We can look complacently upon the past and the remainder of 1933: the future presents more difficulties and a forecast of what the Government will do is not easy. What will happen to the dollar? Will the yield from present taxation continue at its present high level? These are two questions which will be uppermost in Government's mind when formulating its proposals for the coming year, and they are not easy to answer. It is probably safe to assume that the dollar will not go much lower than it is to-day; if any pronounced movement takes place it is more likely to be upward than downward. On the second point, it is possible to make out a strong case for a reduction of taxation based upon the figures of falling trade. A review of revenue sources should certainly be undertaken with a view to affording some relief, where it would do most good. It might even be wise to unbalance the Budget—permitting ourselves to remember the ample surpluses already existing—to secure benefit for the public. This would not necessarily mean any interference with the emergency taxation imposed when the dollar was round the elevenpenny level—entertainment tax, betting duty and the increase in the assessment tax are all of the type which spreads the burden most equitably—but there are directions where relief could be afforded in a way which would engender some enthusiasm. A cut in the assessment tax would merely mean a bonus to landlords; there are other ways, postage rates to mention only one, if those responsible look carefully enough for them. Whether they will or not depends upon how they view the very uncertain future; with hopeful optimism or the customary ultra-caution.

NOTES OF THE DAY

LOCAL PLAYGROUNDS

Government support for the Playgrounds Association follows closely upon recent criticism of official policy regarding the provision of open spaces. Twenty-one thousand dollars is now to be devoted to the preparation of four grounds, two in Hongkong and two on the mainland, and the money could scarcely be better spent. The Playgrounds Association will take over responsibility for maintenance. The Government's action is gratifying, although there remains a great deal more to be done in the same direction.

FOOCHOW PROBLEM

The situation at Foochow is still serious although feelings of alarm have been somewhat allayed since last week. The Communists appear to be in considerable strength, but the principal factor in their successes against the XIXth Army is lack of unity. It seems a sad commentary upon the Chinese military machine generally when two divisions under the same ultimate Command let one another down because of personal disagreements between leaders.

VENTILATING THOUGHT

Mental air pockets resulting from the sluggish circulation of ideas are big handicaps to healthful thinking. Like a close room whose atmosphere is quickly improved by opening a window at top and bottom, the human mentality needs fresh currents of thought obtained by a kind of cross-ventilation process. Mental ruts and indolent habits of thought predispose one toward intellectual stultification. Prevention and cure of this unhappy state are both accessible to multitudes. The simple programme of opening the windows of thought to fresh ideas is the only prescription necessary; but it takes persistence to follow through. We all tend to become creatures of habit, to take the line of least resistance. Most of us need to let the currents of fresh ideas sweep away prejudices and obsolete opinions.

NEW ANGLES

Cross-ventilation of the thinking processes is mainly a matter of viewing things from new angles. Old subjects of interest take on vitality when thus regarded. Withdrawal from the banal, widening the receptivity of eye and ear to the diversity of reading, interest in the biography of eminent men and women and the cultivation of curiosity about current affairs and world movements contribute to such ventilation. Tolerance for the views of others does not imply assent to cherished fundamental, but it is a powerful levelling agent in the lump of human discord. In the lump of human discord, tolerance is a fresh breeze when it is into the habitations of thought. With all its vast problems, the present age offers less excuse than any past age for mental existence. Unbounded opportunities for self-cultivation and improvement pervade the civilized world. Hopefulness is in the air. Across old ignorances and subjective thinking move the invigorating winds of unselfish desire for better things for all sorts and conditions of men, and these currents attune the Aeolian harp of the willing intellect to greater fullness of living.

BETTING

Since its presentation very little has been heard from official quarters concerning the Rowlett Commission's Report on lotteries and betting. What is its most probable fate? The shelf? Latest information suggests there is a risk of it; and yet, despite outcry from interested quarters, it had many good points. Sir Sidney Rowlett is no bigot, and the Report makes a laudable attempt to distinguish two things—the individual's desire to "have a flutter," which it proposes to let him indulge rather more freely than before, and the operations of bodies seeking to exploit this desire for their own profit, which it aims at controlling. We dislike the proposal to restrict "lotto" to horse-racing and refuse to savour of class-unfairness. But the proposal to limit all race-courses alike to a maximum of 100 openings a year seems wise.

OUR NOISIER WORLD

By A. P. GARLAND

THE Industrial Health Board in its recent report states that after close investigation it has been proved that the constant clatter of many typewriters makes no difference to the health of the sufferers and practically none to their efficiency.

This may serve to calm to some extent the panic-mongers who are always bemoaning the stress and fury of modern life.

For example, they indict the speeding-up, which is the salient feature of latter-day transport, and assure us that the rate at which we are borne in our trains, motor-cars and other vehicles is making this a nerve-racked age. Yet, on analysis, we see how feeble is this charge. Which is the more soothing, to sit at ease in a comfortable railway carriage or rubber-tired motor-car travelling smoothly, at 40 to 60 miles an hour, or to be jolted about in rattling, springless, slow-moving vehicles over rough ground?

LABOUR-SAVING INVENTIONS.

Again, if we survey the whole field of human existence we shall quickly realise how modern inventions have greatly ameliorated the disabilities which our forebears had willy-nilly to endure.

In the home, labour-saving devices have got rid of 90 per cent. of the drudgery of domestic work. No longer is the housewife an old woman before she is 40. In the industrial and commercial world, science has provided us with infinite means of avoiding the tedious and agonising labour of the bad old days.

Even in such matters as bodily gain, which surely must be the greatest of all nerve irritants, medical discovery has endowed us bountifully with palliatives. No man, for instance, with tablets at his elbow need endure a headache for any length of time; his grandfather had usually to grin and bear it. And in grave illnesses the patient of to-day has a luxurious time in comparison with his predecessors.

NOISIER—BUT EASIER.

True, it must be admitted that ours is a noisier world than ever before. The growth of traffic and of factories has produced a volume of sound that might be expected to be gravely injurious to the nerves.

Yet to accept this belief would be to discount unwarrantably the amazing adaptability of the human race to changing conditions. Old and feeble people may find the noise of modern traffic oppressive, but it is their lack of resiliency that is to blame.

The modern child, born into a noisy world, suffers no discomfort from the turmoil. To him or her it is the natural condition of things. And the riveter or boiler-maker makes no complaint of the din in which he labours.

To sum it up, we have no need to worry about the stress of modern life. It is now smoother and easier than ever before, as our predecessors, if they got the chance, would be willing to admit. In confirmation one has but to glance at the mortality tables of the life-assurance companies.

FARMERS AND THE TITHE

IN almost every English county farmers are showing increasing resentment against tithes. Recently there have been numerous refusals to pay, followed by distraint on the farmers' goods. And now many of these forced sales have been declared by Mr. Justice Swift in the King's Bench Division to have been illegally executed.

Uncountably venerable, and undoubtedly complicated as regards their legal history, the principle upon which tithes are based is delightfully simple. "The labourer is worthy of his hire"—and if his labour is spiritual, to the exclusion of work necessary for material existence, then it becomes the duty of those for whom his spiritual work is given to provide that he keeps body and soul together.

HOW IT BEGAN.

In that way the fruits of the earth, no less than the consequences of man's toll in their production, came under the toll of the Church. There was the globe allocated direct to the use of the incumbent of the parish church; and there was the tithe, or tenth part of the yield of the agricultural produce of the rest of the land in the parish earmarked as belonging to him.

In simpler days, when the entire parish—landowners and labourers—lived under the ministrations of one person, and when corn fetched good prices and was the staple industry of the countryside, this tribute in kind was nothing of a hardship. In its origin a voluntary gift it had in a very early stage of English legal history become compulsory.

But its obligatory nature does not seem to have mattered until time brought other changes with greater potentialities of irritation. The growing sectarianism of the countryside cannot have increased the cheerful willingness of the gift. And the alienation, in certain cases, of tithes into lay hands, made possible—as we are told—by the dissolution of the monasteries, deprived of all sentimental reason such offerings, which thus became as impersonal and cold-blooded as a mortgage.

IRKSOME IN LEAN YEARS.

But the shoe must have really begun to pinch about a hundred years ago, when payment in cash took the place of payment in kind. The basis of payment was still corn, and the price of corn over a certain number of years governed the amount. In good years the sum could, no doubt, have been, and was, paid without difficulty. But the average process too often meant a substantial bill in lean years.

Matters came to a head in the post-war years, when the anchorage to corn as a standard of payment proved about as calamitous to the tithepayer as the anchorage to gold has proved to the rest of the human race. It is true that the corn anchorage has now been abolished, and the tithe-rent charge put at a fixed figure, while a sinking fund has been instituted with a view to its redemption in certain instances.

The Very Idea!

OUR BIOGRAPHIES

By Eddie Kelly, Who's Who!

EVERY newspaper office has its Morgue, in which is stored the biographies and histories of every person of note.

As soon as people leave this world of strife, all that is necessary is to dig deep down in the morgue, drag out the copy, blue pencil any unkind references, and publish the rest.

Which reminds us of the little girl who visited Happy Valley cemetery with her Mother. She scanned all the tombstones with in sight. Then after a pause—

"Mother," she asked, "where do they bury all the bad people?"

Naturally, in the Telegraph morgue, two or three drawers have had to be provided for persons whose surnames begin with the letter "K". This has happened ever since we came to Hongkong.

About the only people tag isn't kept on are the newspaper writers themselves. For instance, we can tell you who it was you were out with the other night, while your wife was on a holiday in Shanghai. We could also tell you who your wife was out with while she was in Shanghai.

In response to repeated requests, we have arranged, after considerable research, a complete directory of the writers in Hongkong. If you don't believe us, ask them yourselves.

KELLY, EDWARD, born and bred in Australia, 1889; educ. Ox. and Far East; game of Edward, notorious bushranger; m. Arabella through no fault of his own; usual Polo Watkins, Mrs. Whatelet, the Very Idea; invented Chit system 1933, abolished chit system 1935. Wears black and chit shoes. Recreations: Drinking, snoring at drafts, drinking. Publications: "I.O.U."

MACWHIRTER, ROBERT: b. Scotland; educ. same place. Is dangerous when roused; killed his first editor, 1898. Shouted Edward Kelly one drink 1903. Fond of buttermilk, but consorts with suspicious characters, being a member of K.B.C.C. Recreations: Bowls, haggis, and keeping eye on Edward Kelly. Publications: "The Once Over", "Hop Scotch", "Free Beer in Hongkong". Club: A big one with knobs on.

CELLULOID & PREVIEWER b. Hollywood Zoo, educ. same place, issues Gold Cups, Bouquet, Raspberries (mostly raspberries); m. Plays mouth organ in secret; recreations: choir singing, catching worms. Sings in his bath tub. Fought in Boxing Championships 1929; came out of hospital 1930. Wears red tie, Jaeger underpants and has been known to swear.

PATAUDI

Don't blame us for what follows: How do you think he resembles his name. This brilliant young Kajah of cricketing fame?

What are its vowels? And can you guess Which of the vowels one should stress. The jelly old Nawab of Pataudi.

Some people will say: Oh, isn't grand—The jelly old Nawab of Pataudi.

Others I hope there's not too rivalry. A crowd at the Oval to greet Pataudi.

Others again: I'm not a body, but I do admire this chap Pataudi.

And what do you think I heard last Saturday? I'm hoping to see a knock by Pataudi.

Wait, that'll be all right (said I)—It's one of those what Pataudi do!

"I've really outgrown these things. I only play with them to keep in shape."

EASY WIN FOR PERRY

AMERICAN TENNIS RESULTS

KEEN GAMES AT FOREST HILLS

Forest Hills, Sept. 6.
F. J. Perry, of Britain, Jack Crawford and Vivian McGrath of Australia and Jiro Satoh and R. Nunoi of Japan are the leading overseas players who negotiated third round obstacles to-day in the American National Singles Tennis Championship which is in progress at Forest Hills.

The day's programme was full of surprises. Nunoi's defeat of George Lott after the American had led by two sets to love, the elimination of Frankie Parker, U.S. "Boy Wonder", by Keith Gledhill in four sets, and Satoh's desperate struggle to beat Griffin, a comparatively "unknown" in five sets, were among the high spots.

Ellsworth Vines, holder of the title, who has been seeded No. 1 came up against E. R. Avory, the young Englishman in the third round, but met with but slight opposition, winning the match in three sets of 28 games.

Fred Perry gave no rope to Hecht, a New York competitor, winning his match with the loss of nine games, and McGrath was just as severe on Davenport, another New York player.

Turnbull, the Australian Davis Cup player, put up a disappointing display against Frank Shields, although it must be admitted that the American is now touching his best form. The match went to three sets.

PARKER TAKES COUNT.

Undoubtedly one of the most attractive encounters was that between Keith Gledhill and Frank Parker. The latter, holder of the Clay Court Championship, and a strongly fancied candidate for grass court honours, found Gledhill at his best.

Stylish Parker captured the first set, but conceded the second. A fierce contest of 20 games saw the third set go to Gledhill and Parker was a beaten man, making only a half-hearted attempt to recover in the fourth stanza.

Nunoi gave a dazzling display against Lott. The American was completely on top in the first two sets, but thereafter the Japanese found his touch, and keeping a beautiful length, ran away with the next three sets, conceding but four games. It was a spectacular victory.

Satoh was sent all the way by Griffin. The Japanese only just snatched the first set at 7-5, and lost the following two. His graceful, stamling and superior experience stood him in good stead in facing a delicate position, and once he had got back to level terms, his ultimate success was assured.

CRAWFORD LOSES SET.

Jack Crawford by no means had a walk-over against Jack Tidball, ranked No. 15 in America. He had to give away the second set and only clinched the issue in the fourth after twelve games.

Wilmer Allison and Van Ryn, the famous doubles combination, engaged in a fascinating five-sets match. It saw Allison, who was twice beaten in the Inter-Zone Davis Cup match against Britain this year, defeat his confrere after losing the first two sets.

THE RESULTS.

Ellsworth Vines (U. S.) beat E. R. Avory (G. B.) 6-3, 7-5, 6-1.
F. J. Perry (G. B.) beat Hecht (New York) 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.
W. Allison (U. S.) beat Van Ryn (U. S.) 4-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2.
C. Sutter (U. S.) beat Murray (Canada) 6-1, 7-5, 6-2.
R. Nunoi (Japan) beat G. M. Lott (U. S.) 5-7, 1-6, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2.
J. Satoh (Japan) beat Griffin (U. S.) 7-5, 4-6, 2-6, 6-1, 6-3.
V. McGrath (Australia) beat Davenport (U. S.) 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.
K. Gledhill (U. S.) beat F. Parker (U. S.) 4-6, 6-3, 11-9, 6-3.
J. Crawford (Australia) beat J. Tidball (U. S.) 6-2, 6-8, 6-2, 7-5.
F. Shields (U. S.) beat P. D. Turnbull (Australia) 6-4, 8-6, 6-3.

WHAT HAPPENS TO CONFISCATED GOODS

POLICE OFFICER EXPLAINS TO MAGISTRATE

Detective-Sergeant Hemsley made application before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Court this morning for the confiscation of a quantity of miscellaneous unmanifested cargo found unclaimed in the crew's quarters aboard the s.s. Hydrangea.

The magistrate: What happens to all this confiscated stuff?
Sergt. Hemsley: We hand it over to the Revenue department, they sell it, and I think the money goes to the Government.

PROMPT ACTION BY INSPECTOR

LEADS TO CAPTURE OF THIEF

Detective Inspector C. P. Fallon, who has now retired from the Criminal Investigation Department of the Police Force, was commended for his contribution to the arrest of a snatcher, Li Tsai, a P.W.D. coolie, who was sentenced to six months hard labour by Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, for stealing $32.20 from Tang Sam-lui, a married woman, near the French Hospital, Causeway Bay.

Sub-Inspector Nolloth said that about 12.30 p.m. yesterday, the complainant was returning from a pawn shop. When outside the Sookunpoo playing fields, the defendant snatched a handkerchief containing the money which she held in her left hand, and ran towards the French Hospital.

Her shouts brought Inspector Fallon on the scene and he gave chase. The complainant's husband also joined in the chase.

The defendant, seeing Inspector Fallon, jumped into a nullah and ran down it. He entered a culvert with Inspector Fallon behind, and the complainant's husband arrested him when he came out at the other end. Defendant took the Inspector to the nullah, where the money was found underneath a piece of tin. If it had not been for Inspector Fallon the defendant might have escaped.

The defendant said that he had picked up the money and had run away with it. The complainant's husband chased him, and struck him several blows when he caught him.

MISS VIOLET HARD MARRIED

To Mr. G. P. Murphy of the P.W.D.

A very pretty wedding took place at the Registry Office on Tuesday between Mr. G. P. Murphy, of the Public Works Department, and Miss Violet Daisy Hard, the youngest daughter of Captain and Mrs. T. Hard of the Royal Army Pay Corps.

The bride was attired in a charming ensemble of ivory elephant crepe, trimmed with crystals, and a smart beret of the same material with a tulle veil. Her bouquet was of white gladioli. Her mother was attired in a lace ensemble artistically carried out in beige and tangerine silk. She wore a French hat to tone, and carried a bouquet of flame coloured gladioli.

Subsequent to the ceremony, a reception was held in the Rose Room of the Peninsula Hotel, the guests, numbering approximately sixty, being received by the bride's parents.

The reception was attended by the bridegroom's associates in the Public Works Department, together with Colonel W. J. H. Bilderbeck O.B.E., Command Paymaster, the remaining officers of the Royal Army Pay Corps, officers of other Units, (friends of the bride), and members of the Detachment, R.A.P.C.

Displayed in the Rose Room were numerous and costly presents from the many friends of the bride and bridegroom.

HEALTH TOASTED.

A toast to the bridal couple was proposed by Colonel W. J. H. Bilderbeck, who, in a few well chosen words wished them every happiness, and said that although the bride's parents were leaving the Colony at the end of the year, he sincerely hoped that the bride and bridegroom would not lose touch with the Corps.

The bridegroom, responding, said he had thoroughly enjoyed the functions of the Corps that he had attended, and was very

ROBBED OF ALL HIS SAVINGS

WATCHMAN WHO IS DUE FOR RETIREMENT

THREE COMPANIONS CHARGED

The story of a particularly mean theft of $500 in Hongkong Bank notes, a ten rupee note, clothing to the value of $160 contained in a brass bound box from an Indian watchman, Sher Mohamed, who is going back to India on retirement next month, was unfolded by Detective Sergeant Fitches before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning.

The defendants are Wali Dad, Mohamed Ashraf, Sahib Dad and Sakander Khan. The first three defendants are charged with larceny and receiving, while the fourth is only charged with receiving.

Mr. A. el Arculli appeared for the fourth defendant, and Mr. Horace Lo for the others.

Sergeant Fitches said that the complainant was a watchman employed by the Hongkong Tramways, and resided at their depot. He had a brass bound box containing clothing and other property which he left at No. 10, Star Street, 3rd floor, where the first, second and third defendants lived. The complainant was shortly due to proceed back to India on retirement. In addition to the clothing, $500 in Hongkong Bank notes and a ten rupee note were in the box.

The house boy employed by the defendants would say that on August 27 at 12.30 p.m. the only persons beside himself on the premises were the first and third defendants. About that time they wrote a letter, and gave it to him to deliver to a watchman at the Kowloon Docks. This letter mentioned a key, but actually was of no importance, as it was a ruse to get him away from the premises.

COOLIES SEEN WITH BOX.

When the boy returned about 1.30 p.m. neither of the defendants were there, and he found the box missing. The following morning he reported the matter to the complainant, and asked him whether he had removed the box. The complainant said he had not, and later reported the theft to the police.

Inquiries were made, and an Indian watchman who lives on the adjoining floor had said that he had occasion to go up to this floor, and met the second defendant coming down the stairs, with four coolies who were carrying the box. He did not attach any importance to the incident. The second defendant had denied taking the box, and put the blame on some others.

Two Chinese detectives were sent out to locate the coolies, and they succeeded in tracing two of them. At the station those coolies pointed out the first and second defendants as being the persons who had instructed them to take the box. The box was taken to No. 1, Minden Road, Tsimshatsui, where the fourth defendant was employed as a watchman, and the box was deposited in the garden there. The box was later found in the basement occupied by the fourth defendant.

The locks had been forced open, and $271 was found missing. The sum of $229 and the ten rupee note which were placed in a secret drawer were found intact. The case is proceeding.

pleased to be given the opportunity to continue the association.

The duties of best man were carried out by Mr. Shawan, of the Public Works Department.

The happy couple left yesterday morning for a short tour of Japan on the Asama Maru where the honeymoon is being spent.

The bride's going away dress was a delightful creation of sapphire blue and dove, after a model by Jean des Veynes. Her hat and shoes were also of these shades.

All dresses were "Eunice" creations.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

IT IS ONLY WHEN THE RICH ARE SICK THAT THEY FULLY FEEL THE IMPORTANCE OF WEALTH.—Colton.

Fatally injured by a lorry at the junction of Pokfulam Road and Queen's Road West, a 69-year-old hawker, Wan Fung, was admitted to the Government Civil Hospital where he died last night.

Wong Wan-yung, a married woman, residing at No. 22, King Kwong Road, Happy Valley, was this morning fined $250 for possession of 3.5 tael of prepared opium, and $100 for possession of ten tael of opium dross. Mr. F. X. D'Almeida (Jnr) pleaded guilty on behalf of the defendant.

Peak Club Members are reminded that the Entry List for the Contract Bridge Tournament to be held on Saturday, will close at 6 p.m. on Friday evening.

Four cases of typhoid with two deaths, and 40 deaths from tuberculosis, were reported to the local health authorities last week. On Tuesday there was a clean bill of health.

Sentence of one year's hard labour was passed by Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning on Chan Pui, 52, a returned banished. He was sent away in 1929 for five years, and had four previous convictions including two for breaches of the deportation order.

CLAIM BY DAVID SASSOON & CO.

ALLEGED BREACH OF CONTRACT

Continuing his evidence in a claim for $1,910.70 by David Sassoon & Co., Ltd., Lo Chung-ming, managing partner of the Yan On Firm who are the defendants, alleged this morning that after he had returned to the plaintiffs one of their arrival notes, it was again sent to him with the date altered.

"That is the 'forgery'", remarked Mr. H. G. Sheldon representing the claimant.

The claim is for breach of contract by non-acceptance and non-payment of goods ordered in 1931. Plaintiffs eventually auctioned the goods and the amount claimed is the difference between the contract and the auction price plus interest and commission.

Mr. D. McNeill for defendants submitted that his clients had already paid for some of the goods which, however, had not been delivered. The money he alleged, had been put through another account.

Mr. Lo said he informed the broker that he would not accept the goods because of their inferior quality and late arrival, and he was informed that there had been a number of similar complaints. Witness said he refused to accept the mediation of the Chinese Piece Goods Guild in the matter and told Mr. Compton of the plaintiff firm that he would reject the goods.

Cross-examined by Mr. Sheldon witness identified Mr. Compton in court and adhered to his evidence. He denied that his version of conversations with Mr. Compton, Mr. Wong, etc., regarding rejection were "absolutely false."

The case is proceeding.

ROOSEVELT AND TARIFFS

SEEKING POWER FROM CONGRESS

Washington, Sept. 2.
The Roosevelt administration is considering asking the next session of Congress, opening in January, for authority to negotiate commercial treaties embodying reciprocal tariff concessions, it was learned to-day.

The legislation would equip the State Department to negotiate reciprocal treaties planned in the administration programme of bolstering trade relations, particularly with Latin American countries, without submitting each one to Congress in advance. But Congress could veto any of them within a certain period.

Negotiations already have begun with Colombia and Brazil, with Argentina, Portugal and Sweden soon to follow.

The treaties in most cases are expected to provide tariff reductions and other concessions in the American market in return for concessions to American trade in the markets of the treaty nations.

Asking this power was on Roosevelt's programme for the recent special session of Congress, but the plan was given up because of the pressure to adjourn Congress in June before the world economic congress opened June 12 at London.

COTTON MILLS APPEAL

SHANGHAI GROUP SEEKING AID

Shanghai, Sept. 7.
The Association of Chinese Cotton Mills here is requesting the Central Bank of China to grant a loan of $5,000,000 in order to relieve business hardships.

Preliminary discussions had been held with Mr. H. H. Kung, Governor of the Central Bank, but definite arrangements are not likely to be reached until the return of Mr. T. V. Soong to Nanking from Kullang. — Central News Agency.

RAILWAY WORK IN JEOPOL

JAPANESE IMPROVING COMMUNICATIONS

Peking, Sept. 6.
It is reported that the Japanese are planning to improve communications in Jehol as a first step towards tapping the natural resources of the province. A railway between Peipiu and Chengchow, an extension of the existing railway to Chinchow, is under construction. Work on the new line is expected to be completed as far as Pingchuan next month, while the section from Pingchuan to Chengchow may be finished at the end of this year. — Central News Agency.

THREE CONVICTS CAPTURE A JAIL

LOCK WARDERS UP AND ESCAPE

Belgrade.
Three convicts captured a goal at Pozharevatz (Yugoslavia), stripped the warders, locked them up and then escaped.

The ringleader was awaiting trial for the murder of a warder in another prison. He had escaped in the dead man's clothes, but had been caught again.

With two other prisoners, the man overpowered two warders. Then the convicts captured the only other two warders by means of the guns they had seized, and took command of the goal.

At the gun's point, the four warders were forced to strip and were locked in the cells. Then the convicts dressed in the warders' clothes, took the best rifles, plenty of ammunition and food and fled.

They have not been heard of since. — Reuter.

Tie-Ideas.

Ideas about ties vary, but opinion is almost unanimous concerning the most pleasant place to choose the sort of ties men like to wear. For, as the accepted headquarters for good ties, Mackintosh's introduce new patterns practically every week... exclusive patterns expressing the latest ideas that are current in the West End of London... with the number of ties in each pattern deliberately restricted.

HYDE-LAY NEW BOWLS CHAMPION

PLAYS CLEVERLY AGAINST LUZ

LOSER FORGETS HIS TACTICS

A SPECTACULAR LAST HEAD

HYDE-LAY SHOWS INITIATIVE

(By "Veritas")

A Hyde-Lay, playing the finest bowls of his career, was yesterday crowned the new lawn bowls champion of the Colony, when he beat R. F. Luz, a former holder of the title, by 21 shots to 15 in 20 heads.

It was not a brilliant exhibition of the game in the sense that the players would take each other out of shot wood with perfect deliveries, but Hyde-Lay did maintain a sufficiently high standard of accuracy, combined with skill and tactics, which not only earned him a meritorious success, but held the keen interest of the big crowd of spectators.

There were some very poor heads, but there were also a number of heads which did full justice to the importance of the occasion. The fact that Luz never, at any stage of the match, touched his best form, detracts nothing from the display of Hyde-Lay.

The K.C.C. representative played the type of game which would have been good enough to beat the Portuguese at his best.

FAVOURITE ENDS.

Both players seized on their favourite end early in the game and did most of their scoring on them. Hyde-Lay for instance showed more than a partiality for bowling from the Valley end. It was from here which he scored his three on the third head, four on the ninth and another four on the 13th. Actually he failed to register shots from this end only on four heads, and fourteen of his 21 shots were scored from there.

Luz preferred bowling from the road end. From here he scored seven shots on four heads. Yet it was from Hyde-Lay's favourite end that the loser obtained his four. He owed it to Hyde-Lay's tactical blunder rather than his own bowling. Hyde-Lay left with the final wood an open draw for first or second shot on the backhand, with his own wood covering the forehand draw. But he ignored the obvious, bowled forehand and was narrow.

Luz made the tremendous error practically throughout the game of allowing Hyde-Lay to retain open draws on the forehand. The winner early on revealed that this was his strong suit, and that if blocked, would be very unlikely to enjoy the same success on his backhand.

OBVIOUS TO TACTICS.

Luz, himself a powerful backhand bowler appeared to become oblivious to tactics in his endeavour to find the green and strength. Had he changed his game Hyde-Lay might have found his task infinitely more difficult.

The last head proved that not only was Hyde-Lay a splendid fighter, but that he had sufficient initiative and courage to cut himself away from the text book and bowl according to his own ideas.

He needed two to win and he obtained them thanks to a remarkable shot. There were many around the green who shook their heads sadly when they saw what decision the champion had made after an examination of the lie.

He had two courses open with his final wood, having already played the shot. He could either play backhand to rest one of two woods in front of the jack, or attempt a straight draw on the forehand.

On this side of the jack he was already lying shot with Luz's wood resting for second shot. A draw to the jack on the forehand even if wide would entail little more either taking Luz's wood out and thereby securing his two, or taking his own shot out, but leaving himself one. The chief danger of the shot was in taking the jack as Luz had two good back woods.

PULLS OFF COUP.

But Hyde-Lay had already found the green on his forehand.

and required only a slight reduction in weight for a clean draw for shot. He decided to attempt it and pulled off the coup with a brilliant wood which rested the jack.

It was about the only spectacular incident of the match, unless one excepts that disastrous ninth head for Luz. The Portuguese decided to try a short head, the only short head of the match, and Hyde-Lay showed his appreciation by taking a four—all beautifully placed woods within six inches of the jack.

This was another illustration of the somewhat casual way in which Luz played his game. He appeared to forget that the earlier heads indicated very clearly that his woods demanded a lot of green. Consequently when he came to the short head he was narrow with three woods. Neither did the fact that Hyde-Lay scored all four shots on the forehand encourage Luz to take greater precautions.

The real value of Hyde-Lay's game was to be found in his accuracy. His last two woods on nearly every head were better than those of his opponent. Luz lacked finish to his game, whereas Hyde-Lay was most dangerous when bowling his fourth wood.

COATES BEATS BRADBURY.

Playing on the next rink for the third and fourth prizes, A. E. Coates defeated B. W. Bradbury by 21 shots to 12.

Coates was consistently good throughout, scoring on a dozen heads. Like Hyde-Lay, he had to thank his opponent for a three on one head. Bradbury decided to make it a very short head—almost the maximum—and Coates responded to the gesture with a three.

PREPARING FOR 1934 OLYMPICS

The stadium is located at Harrison Park near the boundary line between Manila and Rizal province. This field when finished will be complete in every detail. It will have facilities for soccer football, baseball, track oval, basketball, swimming pool, tennis courts and volleyball courts.

An addition to the standard swimming tank in the field is the diving tower, recently finished. The City of Manila has contributed P6,000 for the improvement of this swimming pool.

CONCRETE AND STEEL.

Work is in progress on the baseball grandstand which is of mixed steel and concrete. This grandstand will have a seating capacity of 8,000. Work on the running track is also well under way. The dimension of the track is being increased from 7 to 10 metres to accommodate seven lanes, while the track oval is to be reduced from 500 to 400 metres in order to conform with the track ovals in the provinces. In reducing the track oval to only 400 metres Dr. Ylanan said this is done in order to make the athletes in the provinces feel at home when they perform in the arena.

In November the construction of another steel and concrete grandstand will be started. This structure will measure about 150 metres to be built on the straight away track. It will have a seating capacity of 10,000 people. The Rizal Memorial Field can be reached through the three thoroughfares leading from the heart of Manila. The field is only a little distance from the Taft Avenue extension and from A. Mabini. The road connecting San Andres is the nearest road to the field. Work on this road is now in progress.

Dr. Ylanan, national physical director and secretary-treasurer of the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation remarked that everything possible is being done to make the field one of the finest in the world.

He said that the entrance to the stadium from Vito Cruz street will be patterned after the front structure of the Metropolitan Theatre.

MRS. MOODY RESTING.

Operation Not Considered Likely For Present.

San Francisco, Sept. 6.
Mrs. Helen Williams Moody, who was admitted to the Stanford University Hospital on Saturday suffering from a dislocated vertebrae, is resting quietly and it is not considered likely that an operation will be necessary.

CONVICT BECOMES POLICE OFFICER

TO HELP STAMP OUT BUSHMAN TRIBE

Windhoek, British S.W. Africa.
Hunted by the police, arrested, sent to prison, and then, a few months later, enrolled as a special constable.

This is the record of Bruno Lemke, perhaps better known as Ngovo, formerly white chief of a Bushman tribe.

Lemke fell foul of the police for big-game shooting without a permit, for which he was arrested and convicted.

Now he has been enlisted as a special constable in the South-West African Police on account of his wonderful ability as a desert man, his knowledge of the Kalahari from the Okavango to the Orange River, and the location of every water hole; his marvellous tracking abilities and, more important than anything else, his unique knowledge of the Bushmen, which he gained during his sojourn with them.

Lemke's enlistment is one of the results of discussions between the Department of Agriculture and the police whereby it has been decided to strengthen the existing police posts on the border between Bushuanaaland and South-West Africa and establish others at various places.—Reuter.

FROM CONSTABLE TO SUPTD:

ROMANTIC RISE IN PALESTINE FORCE

An Englishman, Constable J.P.T. Ford, has been appointed acting Assistant Superintendent of Police here.

He is the first constable to be promoted to commissioned rank in accordance with the recommendation made two years ago by Sir Herbert Dowling, Inspector-General of the Ceylon Police. Sir Herbert urged at the time that advancement should be available for constables of outstanding merit.

The number of British constables of public school education now in the Palestine police force is quite considerable.

According to a statement here, the promotion of a man from within the force instead of sending out cadet officers from England shows that the Colonial Office has sufficient confidence now in the Palestine force, and is a tribute to the high standard of recruits joining in England.

The Hon. Mervyn Patrick Wingfield, only son and heir of Viscount Powerscourt, joined the Palestine Police as a constable in August, 1932, and resigned later to marry Miss Sheila Beddington, of London.—Reuter.

RAIL DISASTER

COACHES TELESPORED IN COLLISION

New York, Sept. 6.
Fourteen persons were killed and 20 were injured, some of them fatally, when a freight train crashed into the rear end of the Erie express, the famous Chicago Flyer, last night.

The express had been brought to a standstill by signals near Binghamton, N.Y., when a heavy freight train crashed into its rear, telescoping several coaches.

A frightful scene followed. When rescue parties arrived they had to work by the light of flares and electric torches. They found the decapitated bodies of several persons.

Soldiers, policemen, firemen and doctors, as well as the ordinary railway rescue crews, laboured frantically to extricate the injured from the tangled wreckage of the cars. American sleeping coaches, Pullman cars, are built of steel throughout, save for the fittings.

An undamaged coach was converted into a surgery where the injuries of many were dressed and a number of amputation cases attended to. Priests were summoned to administer the last rites to the more gravely injured.—Reuter.

MORTGAGED GODOWN AUCTIONED.

TWO BORROWINGS TO BE PAID OFF

By order of the second mortgagee, No. 34, Belcher's Street, a general godown, was put up for auction in the China Auction Rooms yesterday afternoon and was purchased by Mr. Kan Man-hing, the only bidder, for $30,000.

The property is sold subject to a transfer of the first mortgage and to the repayment of the principal and interest thereon, amounting to nearly $29,000. Liquidation of the first mortgagee's interest in the matter will have raised the actual payment by Mr. Kan to $30,000. The property occupies an area of nearly 9,000 sq. ft. and is held on a 999-year lease.

ARSENAL WIN AND POMPEY DRAW

London, Sept. 6.
Arsenal pleased their supporters at Highbury this evening when they beat West Bromwich by three goals to one to record their second win in three matches.

Newcastle obtained their maiden victory of the season at the expense of Blackburn, but Portsmouth, who started so well, received an unexpected check at Fratton Park, being held to a draw by Sunderland.

Visitors in the southern section of the Third Division had a good day. Norwich, Bristol Rovers, Gillingham and Bournemouth all made fruitful journeys, and Reading and Torquay were the only home clubs to win.

Chesterfield rattled up four goals against Wrexham and Gateshead showed improved form by holding Darlington to a draw of three goals each on the latter's enclosure.

LEAGUE TENNIS

EASY WIN FOR RECREIO

IN "C" DIV.

Meeting in the "C" Division of the Lawn Tennis League on Tuesday, the Recreio, and Radio Sports Club played for league points, resulting in an easy win for Recreio by eight sets to one.

The Radio turned out with only two pairs, thereby giving the Portuguese three sets. Without these, however, the Radio obtained the necessary five sets to win.

Scores:
L. A. Carvalho and A. M. Silva (Recreio) beat Ma Kwong and G. Halford 6-3; beat Wm. Chanson and D. Waterlow 6-2.
J. L. Xavier and A. M. Xavier (Recreio) beat Ma and Halford 6-3; lost to Chanson and Waterlow 5-7.

A. A. Remedios and M. A. Oliveira (Recreio) beat Ma and Halford 6-2; beat Chanson and Waterlow 6-0.

CANTON AQUATICS

Provincial Meeting To Be Held

Since the announcement of the 6th Kwangtung Provincial Aquatics sports to be held in Canton shortly, many enthusiasts have shown keen interest, and Commander-in-Chief Chan Chai-tong, Chairman Lin Yun-kai, Mayor Liu Chi-wen, Commissioner Tsa Ying-chow, Admiral Cheung Chi-ying and various public bodies have presented many silver prizes.

Regulations for the contest have been drawn up and it is learned that contestants will be picked to represent Kwangtung from among those who do well in this for the coming National Aquatic Meet.

LORD NELSON'S LOGBOOK

LORD WAKEFIELD

London.

Lord Wakefield rescued for the nation the log-book kept by the sailing-master of the Victory, Nelson's famous flag-ship. Then he "rescued" the sword of honour which the City of London presented to Nelson after the Battle of the Nile. Both these relics are now in the British Museum.

Soon, beside the log of the Victory will lie the personal log, written in Nelson's queer left-handed script, which the Admiral kept during the five months preceding the Battle of Trafalgar.

The book has already been handed over to the British Museum, and will be on view when it has been officially accepted by the trustees in October. Lord Wakefield bought the relic for £3,000 from Mr. George Eyre Matcham. Mr. Matcham is a descendant of Nelson's favourite sister, who inherited the book.

One of the strangest things about the book is that Nelson made the mistake of dating the first entry 1785 instead of 1805. It is thought that his mind must have been turned back to some personal incident 20 years before when he was writing.—Reuter.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

"The Million Dollar Scandal," melodrama of a nation-wide big-money swindle, which opens to-day at the Queen's Theatre will continue its run till Saturday.

Robert Armstrong heads the cast in the role of Fingers Parson, the humble enforcer and ex-convict, who becomes the man of the hour when he dares to talk, exposing a group of millionaire financiers as the perpetrators of a gigantic swindle.

Constance Cummings appears in the feminine lead, as Doris Masterson, daughter of the leader of the swindlers, a role played by Frank Morgan. Others of prominence are Olga Bacanova as Fingers' girl; James Gleason and Warren Hymer as Ratsy and the Kid, his two pals; Frank Albertson as his younger brother; Irving Pichel as the editor of the newspaper which conducts the expose; and Hale Hamilton, Dorothy Peterson, Ralf Harlowe, Bertie Churchill and Sidney Toler are in supporting roles.

"Dangerously Yours"

Miriam Jordan, charming young English actress who has been making rapid strides forward in the motion picture industry since her recent debut in "6 Hours to Live," is a young lady of very decided ideas.

"I believe in being individual," she says, "and no woman can be individual if she lets someone else make up her mind for her about what she should wear."

Miss Jordan wears a number of stunning gowns in her latest Fox Film production, "Dangerously Yours," now at the King's Theatre, in which Warner Baxter is starred. She has the role of a girl detective who seeks to trap a suave society thief, played by Baxter.

Herbert Mundin, Florence Eldridge, Nella Walker, Florence Roberts, Minnie Auer, Arthur Hoyt and Will Davidson also are prominent in the cast. Frank Tuttle is the director.

"Peg O' My Heart"

As a play "Peg O' My Heart" is some twenty years old and yet on the talking screen it is brand new.

The reason for this is in the apparent agelessness of the charming story, in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature which is coming on Sunday to the Queen's Theatre.

In her deft hands, Peg seems to have a new personality and yet with it loses none of the crystal romance of the Irish gamine we know so well on the stage.

The comedy moments of the story abound in richness of dialogue and situations and the love theme with Onslow Stevens as Sir Gerald, adds a poetic gentleness. The story of Peg is too well known to dwell upon but comes upon the screen with a freshness that is delightful, stirring at the same time fond reminiscences of another day.

Included in the cast are J. Farrell MacDonald, Juliette Compton, Irene Browne, Tyrrell Davis, Alan Mowbray, Doris Lloyd, Robert Grieg, Nora Cecil and Geoffrey Gill.

"It's Great to Be Alive"

Edna May Oliver couldn't bear the thought of giving up acting, and she couldn't bear the prospect of even one more Fullman jump. So she went to Hollywood and the movie and has been at it ever since in a steadily more important way.

She won't play any part she doesn't like, which is one reason why Director Alfred Werker welcomed her in one of the most important roles of "It's Great to Be Alive," the Fox Film musical comedy which will introduce Raul Roulien as a star on the American screen at the King's Theatre next Sunday. Miss Oliver read the script and accepted the part ten minutes later.

In addition to Roulien and Miss Oliver, the cast of "It's Great to Be Alive" includes Herbert Mundin, Dorothy Burgess, and Joan Marsh.

NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGEYESTERDAY'S MARKET
EASY

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Frits, the New York market was easy yesterday. Business done 1,880,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: After weakness all the day long with losses as much as 6 points due to lack of demand the market rallied near the close on account of firmness in goldmining shares, oils and repeal stocks. Goldmining shares were firm on announcement that Alaska Juneau expected profits to increase 50 per cent due to the recent gold order. Firmness in oils was on account of advancing prices of crude oil. Repeal stocks were firm on account of the Vermont election. Our New York Office cable (This Morning) Stocks: The market showed excellent recuperative power after morning selling and oils were again impressive. Wheat: Declines developed before buying recovering much of the early losses. Drought continues. Buying side advisable. Cotton: The uncertainty of acreage remaining for cultivation after plow-up is causing wide variation in private crop estimates which now average 12,100,000 bales. There is less pressure and broader buying to-day partly on possibility of a lower Government estimate than generally expected and some buying is attributed to the Government. Our New York Office cable (Last night). Stocks: The market is steadier. Reaction confirms recent market pattern. Expect prices to hold approximately at the present level. Wheat: Liverpool colorless. Utter lack of buying interest is the depression factor. With news bullish believe buying will appear on further setback. Cotton: The market opened steadier on lighter hedge selling with trade apparently inclined to purchases at market rather than on downward scale. It is quiet and featureless.

SERIOUS EVENTS IN CUBA

COMMUNIST MOBS SEIZE SUGAR MILLS

THREATENED U.S. INTERVENTION

WASHINGTON, SEPT. 6.

GRAVE INCIDENTS OF AN ANTI-FOREIGN, LARGELY ANTI-AMERICAN NATURE, ARE OCCURRING IN CUBA AND SWIFT INTERVENTION BY THE UNITED STATES TO PROTECT ITS NATIONALS IS CONSIDERED ALMOST INEVITABLE.

A mob of workmen to-day stormed a liner in Havana Dock and attempted to remove from the ship, the American manager of the Havana branch of the United Fruit Company.

A crowd of alleged Communists have seized two sugar mills in the Province of Oriente, while another sugar mill has been seized by workmen at Santa Clara. The two managers of the mill at Santa Clara were compelled to take refuge from the mob aboard a British freighter in the Harbour.

The revolution appears to be taken on a serious Communistic character, although a manifesto has been issued by the Revolutionary Council guaranteeing the preservation of peace and order and promising that the old command of the armed forces will shortly be restored.

Anxious conferences have been held in Washington as news of developments in Cuba have reached the capital, but the only step thus far taken is the despatch of another warship, the crack ten-thousand-ton cruiser, Indianapolis.

Mr. Claude Swanson, the Secretary of the Navy Department, is travelling aboard the Indianapolis to Havana.

DEPARTURE DELAYED. His actual departure aboard the cruiser was delayed at the last moment for over an hour, but the reason was not disclosed.

It probably had to do with the receipt of a report from the American Ambassador, Mr. Sumner Welles, declaring that conditions are steadily growing worse, particularly on the South Coast.

LATIN AMERICA CONSULTED. President Roosevelt and Mr. Cordell Hull, the Secretary of State, to-day conferred with the representatives of the Argentine, Brazil, Chile and Mexico, on the developments in Cuba.

The President is anxious that any step which the United States may feel compelled to take in Cuba shall not be misinterpreted by Latin America. He reiterated that the United States has no desire to intervene in Cuban affairs.

ANTI-AMERICANISM. He urged that the Cubans should obtain, as rapidly as possible, a government of its own choosing, which will be able to maintain order and thus eliminate the necessity for intervention.

The anti-American angle of many of the demonstrations and the plainly Communistic character of the outbreaks in many places are, however, causing deep concern.—Reuter.

Later. Oriente Province in Cuba seems to have turned definitely over to the revolutionaries. An army sergeant has taken control of the province.—Reuter.

AUSTRALIAN AIR FORCE

TO BE EQUIPPED WITH FAST MACHINES

Melbourne. The fastest and most efficient military aeroplanes available are to be ordered for the Royal Australian Air Force shortly.

The Air Force authorities have been notified that money is available for new equipment, and a special committee, which has been investigating the most suitable types for Australia, will submit its recommendations to the Minister for Defence, Sir George Pearce.

The planes are to be bought on Air Ministry contracts by which Australia will get the benefit of the special concessions granted by manufacturers to the Royal Air Force.

With the money available it will be possible to purchase about eight new machines.—Reuter.

THIS QUEER WORLD

STRANGE STORIES REVEALED

GIRL BOOTBLACKS

London. It is a queer world. From all quarters come examples of this queerness—as related by Reuters Correspondents.

GIRL BOOTBLACKS. The men who black pedestrians' boots in Valencia, Spain, are facing a serious economic crisis. Their earnings have lately fallen heavily owing to the appearance of girl bootblacks on the streets. And the girls are doing a roaring trade.—Reuter.

FATAL GOAL. A hard shot for goal in a football match at Offen, Hungary, was saved by the goalkeeper—at the cost of his life.

Johann Andres, aged 21, was playing goal. The ball struck him over the heart and he died shortly afterwards as the result of the blow.—Reuter.

DEATH FOR FISHING ROD.

Still another prank played by Death this week-end is reported from Prague. Wenzel Rach, aged 32, was fishing in the river Mies near Pilsen. His rod slipped out of his hands—and plunged into the water to get it back. He was drowned.—Reuter.

BULLRING-VILLE. Twenty-four families are living at Tarazona, Aragon, in an abandoned bull ring. They have made themselves comfortable living quarters in the sections all round the arena where villagers once sat every Sunday, shouting encouragement or disdain to toreros who fought bulls in the centre.—Reuter.

THE SENORA CAN SMILE. Hooligans set fire to the residence of a wealthy member of the Spanish aristocracy, Senora de Ibarra, in Seville.

But her magnificent old house has suffered hardly any damage. A fine old mill adjoining has been completely destroyed by fire. The damage is estimated to be some thousands of pounds.—Reuter.

THE DYNAMITE HUSBAND. Hooligans set fire to the residence of a wealthy member of the Spanish aristocracy, Senora de Ibarra, in Seville.

But her magnificent old house has suffered hardly any damage. A fine old mill adjoining has been completely destroyed by fire. The damage is estimated to be some thousands of pounds.—Reuter.

Then the Police arrived. He has time to think it over now.—Reuter.

ASSAULT ON MISS S. DA CRUZ

CHINESE CERTIFIED AS INSANE

The case in which a Chinese youth, Chin Ho, was charged with assaulting Miss S. da Cruz at Lal-chikok last Saturday afternoon, came to an end at the Kowloon Magistracy before Mr. Butters this morning when Detective Sergeant Goodwin produced a medical certificate testifying that defendant was insane.

Immediately upon his arrest after assault, defendant was sent to the Kowloon Hospital for observation, as he was suspected to be mentally deranged.

On receiving the medical certificate this morning, the Magistrate committed defendant to the lunatic asylum.

MOTOR-CYCLE IN SMASH

KOWLOON CAR PARK MISHAP

Turning his A.J.C. motor-cycle too quickly into the lane leading into the Kowloon car park opposite the fire station, Kwok Wing crashed into a tree at 8.45 a.m. this morning. Although the driver was unhurt, the motor-cycle, which had a side-car attachment, was badly smashed.

It is understood that Kwok Wing had not driven the motor-cycle for some time. He was endeavouring to pass through the outward exit of the car park when the crash took place.—Reuter.

Finland's Patron Saint An Englishman

ANTHROLOGIST'S DISCOVERY

Helsingfors. Bishop Henry of Upsala (Sweden), the Patron Saint of Finland, was an Englishman.

So states a Finnish anthropologist who has examined the few remaining bones of the bishop in Abo Cathedral. This theory tallies with the local tradition that Henry originally came from England.

Bishop Henry baptised the heathen Finns during a Swedish Crusade in 1154, but was later murdered by a native.

He was canonised and adopted by the Finns as their Patron Saint. Most of his bones are supposed to have been carried off to Moscow by Russian forces who looted the Cathedral in 1720.—Reuter.

TALKING NEWS-PAPERS NOW

STRANGE INVENTION BY ENGINEER

Madrid. Talking newspapers, or talking sections in ordinary newspapers, may become a reality soon.

Paper "gramophone records" which are stated to be easily reproduced by photography, lithography and other processes, have been invented by an Argentine engineer in Madrid, Senor Fernando Crudo.

An instrument which the inventor calls a "photolipophone" reproduces the sound on these records, a concentrated ray of light taking the place of the needle now used on gramophones. The principle is that of the photo-electric cell of the talkie-light which is transformed into sound. The "record" is put on a cylinder.

The inventor has patented a process for reproducing large rolls, with complete operas or novels, as well as small ones with single songs. He is confident that his invention will result in the creation of talking newspapers.—Reuter.

DESCENDANTS OF GOETHE

FOUND IN HOME FOR POOR CHILDREN

Vienna. A discovery made on the occasion of last year's Goethe centenary, that descendants of the great German poet and writer were in a Vienna home for poor children, is to have a happy sequel. Ex-Chancellor Hainisch is heading a committee which has been formed to help these children, Theodor and Fritz Goethe.

Theodor, aged five and Fritz, aged four, are the sons of a bank clerk who received an excellent education but was "axed" and has long been out of work.

The Austrian Goethes are related to the German family through common descent from Hans Christian Goethe, who, in the 17th Century, was a blacksmith in Artern in Germany. One of his sons, a tailor, moved to Frankfurt, and his son was the famous Goethe.—Reuter.

LAND OF SMILES

WHERE EVERY MAN IS OWN MASTER

UTOPIA AT LAST!

Lisbon. A village community in which every man is his own-master owning his own house and land, and into which the problems of Capital and Labour never come, lies hidden away in the thickly wooded district between the Provinces of Alemtejo and Beira Baixa.

In the communal spinning factory, with fuel from the wooded slopes, cloth is woven from the wool of the mountain sheep.

Every cottage has its hand-loom where the cloth is woven into gaily-coloured shawls and handkerchiefs, and the handwoven carpets which have a ready sale all over the country.

About 150,000 lbs. of wool are thus turned into the finished product, and when the supply runs out, the people turn to the land, of which every house has an equal share.

Their wheat and maize are ground in the community windmill; they produce enough fruit and vegetables for their own needs; and the olive harvest is sent off in the communal ox-carts to the nearest factory to be turned into olive-oil.—Reuter.

PUTTING "TOTAL" IN TEETOTAL

SOFT DRINKS COST TOO MUCH!

Belgrade. Workers of Zagreb, Croatia, have replied to a temperance society's suggestion that they should abstain from alcohol by pointing out that teetotalism costs too much.

They can not afford, they say, "Soft" drinks. For in Zagreb a glass of good wine can be had for 14d, while a glass of lemonade, the cheapest of the soft drinks, costs three pence.

Wages have fallen considerably during the past year, and this is given as one of the reasons for a drop of fifty per cent in the consumption of non-alcoholic liquors in Zagreb during the first six months of this year. The Union of Builders' Workers have petitioned the Municipality to arrange for the production of cheap non-alcoholic drinks.—Reuter.

HIGHWAY SURVEY

SWEDISH EXPLORER TO AID CHINA

Peking, Sept. 6. The famous Swedish explorer, Sven Hedin, who is a resident of Peking, has been engaged by the Nanking Government to lead a small Sino-Swedish expedition into Sinkiang for the purpose of surveying motor highways.

The Government intends to build roads into the interior which will facilitate trade between the more remote districts and the China seaports.

Leaving Kuohua in mid-October, the party will travel westward by motor over the ancient silk route to Rome, the oldest and longest caravan route in the world.

The return journey will be made by the Imperial Road through Kansu, with Nanking as the destination.

The survey will require eight months to complete and the proposed highways when completed will be 2,000 miles long.—Our Own Correspondent.

GAOL FOR DRIVER

SEQUEL TO FATAL LORRY ACCIDENT

The case against Lo Leung, a lorry driver, charged before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy with dangerous driving and carrying passengers in excess, was concluded yesterday afternoon, the defendant being sentenced to six weeks' hard labour on the first count, and ten days' hard labour on the second, the sentences to run consecutively.

The prosecution was conducted by Sub-Inspector Saunders, of the Traffic Department, while Mr. Hinchling Lo appeared for the defence.

The charges arose out of an accident on Island Road on August 24 when a lorry, No. 2090, driven by defendant overturned resulting in one of the coolies, riding at the back, succumbing to injuries received.

Another coolie, Yuen Hi, giving evidence yesterday afternoon, said that he did not see anyone get on to the lorry while it was in motion. The lorry was going fast downhill to Repulse Bay. He shouted to the driver to reduce speed twice, and received a reply that it was not fast.

In reply to Mr. Lo, witness said that the Kwong Chi Company had engaged the lorry for three days, and he and another man were engaged to look after it. The men who boarded the lorry did not pay him, but he had a right to ask them to leave the lorry. He did not do so because they were customers, and had loads of fish in the lorry. It was the driver's business to see if they were too many passengers.

Cheng Tai-yau, another passenger, also testified that the lorry was travelling at a very fast speed downhill, and in answer to Mr. Lo he said that he did not see any pedestrian on the road.

Police Evidence.

Sergeant B. G. Baker said that he went to the scene, and found that three injured men had already been sent to hospital, while six others were seated on the road, and later sent to hospital. Subsequently he steered the lorry when it was being towed by a police van, and found that the brakes were quite good, and he had no difficulty in controlling the lorry. The brakes would even have stopped this lorry with its load at this bend if it had been travelling at 15 or 20 miles an hour.

Sub-Inspector Saunders said that he went to the scene of the accident, which was at a bend in Island Road about half a mile to the south-east of Repulse Bay. The lorry was lying on its right side, obliquely across the hillside side of the road.

The rear of the lorry was at the centre of the road, and the front within three feet of the hill side of the road. There was a 45 foot mark on the road about 2½ inches wide. It was at the bend in the road and within six feet, and in some places five feet, of the hill side of the road. It was a distinct pattern of the right edge of the right wheel tyre of the lorry.

There were also two deep cuts on the road, made by the iron hinges on the right side of the body of the lorry.

He examined the lorry at the Central Police Station. It had twin rear wheels. The treads on the tyres of these wheels were good, but those on the front wheels were smooth. He found the brakes, after a test down the Central Station compound slope, to be quite good. The foot brake acted on all four wheels, and the hand brake on the rear wheels only. He had last examined this lorry on August 18.

Counsel's Submissions.

The evidence for the prosecution was then concluded, and Mr. Lo submitted that with regard to the dangerous driving alleged, there was no evidence whatsoever that the lorry had been driven in a negligent or dangerous manner. True enough two or three witnesses

LONDON HOSPITAL'S THANKS

SIR WILLIAM GOSCHEN'S LETTER TO MISS CAPELL

Miss Violet Capell has received the following letter from The London Hospital gratefully acknowledging receipt of the donation of £10 sent after Miss Capell's recent Dancing Display.

Dear Miss Capell, It is exceedingly good of you to have sent this generous gift in response to my Quinquennial Appeal. Thank you very much for it. Your continued interest in the welfare of the "London" is, I can assure you, deeply appreciated, and it is most encouraging to me, as Chairman, to know that the Hospital still has the support of such a good friend as yourself. With all good wishes, Yours very truly, had said that the lorry was descending the hill at what appeared to them to be a faster speed than usual, but there were other causes which the prosecution had not alleged, such as the lorry being overloaded. From the police point of view there was no complaint that because the lorry was overloaded it enhanced the risk. There was even no suggestion that the driver was incompetent. The mere fact that there was an accident, which unfortunately involved the death of a man, the cause of which remained a mystery, was not evidence on which to convict. He submitted that their reasoning was seriously affected by their moral consideration of the death of the man, but that was no evidence from which to deduce that the driver must be punished.

W. H. GOSCHEN, Chairman.

Sergeant Baker, a fair minded police officer, had testified that even if the lorry had been driven at 20 miles an hour it might not have overturned. On this evidence he asked that the charge be dismissed. If there had been an inquest of the death of Li Hing, he was sure the jury would have returned a verdict of manslaughter, which would have exonerated the driver of dangerous driving.

With regard to the charge of carrying passengers in excess, Mr. Lo submitted that there might be a little doubt as to how the passengers came to be on the lorry. The coolies may have crept on the lorry, as was usually done. The driver himself saw only three or four on the lorry when it started from Stanley, and the rest must have jumped into it while it was in motion.

Defendant's Evidence. Mr. Schofield said there was a case to answer on both charges, and accordingly the defendant went into the witness box and gave evidence.

He said that he had begun driving last February, and had not driven this lorry before. When he left Stanley he only noticed about three or four passengers, and the rest must have jumped into the lorry while it was in motion. The lorry was going downhill at 11 miles an hour. A woman was walking on the road after he turned the bend, and he had to swerve to the right to avoid her. The accident then occurred. He then counted 11 passengers. He did not hear anyone shout to him to reduce speed.

Mr. Lo submitted that the driver's statement that he had swerved to avoid a woman was consistent with what one witness had said that the load of fish moved from the left side to the right before the accident.

Mr. Schofield remarked that he failed to understand how this 45 foot mark could have been caused by a vehicle travelling at 11 miles an hour, even if it had swerved. Moreover these coolies were used to travelling in a lorry, and therefore not usually alarmed at the speed they were going at. Under the circumstances, he would convict.

WORLD CRISIS A WAY OUT

By FREDERICK COPE, A.M.I.E.E.

Mr. Cope's striking articles on the world economic crisis which were recently published in the Hongkong Telegraph are now available in pamphlet form.

One of the features, repaying study, is the close similarity between the plan of reform suggested by this local writer, and certain aspects of the Roosevelt recovery programme. The author's ideas are naturally far too advanced for active promotion at the present time, but they are particularly interesting in view of the fact that President Roosevelt, in striking out on a path of his own, has travelled in the same direction.

The pamphlet is one of forty-four pages and can be obtained from the South China Morning Post at a cost of—

CUBAN CIVIL WAR LIKELY

AMERICA MAY INTERVENE

New York, Sept. 6.
The spectre of civil warfare hangs over Cuba, consequent upon the second revolution, and the seizing of power by an extremist junta, headed by a non-commissioned officer of the army. The likelihood of American intervention is admitted here, and in Havana.

The American colony in Havana is most apprehensive, and arrangements are being made to concentrate the American nationals at a hotel within gun range of United States warships in the harbour. The purpose of the new revolt, according to insurgent soldiers, is to eradicate all the bad elements from the Government service. They declare that the real struggle is between youth and age.

Policy Tested.

In Washington it is felt that the United States is facing a true test of the whole of its Latin-American "hands off" policy.

President Roosevelt is watching developments with great concern. The Navy Department has moved Atlantic units of the fleet to a position where, if necessary, they can land 2,700 men in Cuba within 48 hours.—Reuter.

Shanghai, Sept. 5.
The Evening Post learns that Baron Ruedt von Collenburg, the German Consul-General in Shanghai, who is now in Germany on furlough, will be appointed Minister to Mexico City, to which place he will proceed without returning here.

The Evening Post says that this news has been received in Shanghai by private sources but, up to the present, the German Consul-General has received no notification on this subject.—Reuter.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

While it is true in the Constructive
One over One system of contract bidding that we do sometimes open third hand very weak and will open in fourth position with much less than the strength required to make a first or second hand opening bid, it does not necessarily follow, when your partner makes a third or fourth hand opening bid, that he does not hold any tricks.

If your partner makes a weak
third or fourth hand opening bid,
you give him a constructive response and he re-bids, even though it is only a re-bid in the same suit,
you immediately know that your partner has a good five-card suit
and that he has some definite side strength. Therefore from that point on you should forget that it was a third or fourth hand opening bid and now assume that the bidding is on a sound basis.

It was surprising the number of players who missed game on the following hand in a recent duplicate match.

The Bidding

South, West and North passed and East opened fourth hand with a bid of one diamond. South overcalled with one spade and West
bid two diamonds.

This bid is constructive—remember that West could pass if he held a weak hand. North bid two spades and West bid three diamonds.

Right here is where East tried to tell his partner that he had a real hand.

South bid three spades. West had good control of the club suit,

NAVY DAY RUMOUR

IN THE MIDDLE OF OCTOBER

ADMIRALTY LORD COMING OUT

Rumours are abroad that Hongkong is to have a Naval Day this year, the celebrations to take place on Trafalgar Day (October 21). Although the matter appears to be still in the suggestion stage, there is every probability that it will take some concrete form in the near future.

The Telegraph understands that details have not yet been considered, but that the programme will possibly follow closely along the lines of the Navy Week programmes at Home so as to give people the opportunity of examining the different types of vessel attached to the China Station. Most of the China Fleet will be back in port from their summer cruise by the middle of October.

It is of interest that Capt. D. Euan Wallace, M.C., Civil Lord of the Admiralty, is due to arrive in the Colony on October 19.

Local residents are to some extent ignorant of the work and life of the Navy and a Navy Day should provide an admirable opportunity to improve things.

Hongkong is the fifth largest port in the world and one which England looks upon as an important centre for her shipping. The maintenance of a Navy here is therefore of paramount importance. Few of the residents have any idea of its organisation and it is doubtful whether more than a very small percentage have ever given it a second thought.

EX-CONSTABLE CHARGED

WITH KEEPING AN OPIUM DIVAN

"This opium divan is within fifty yards of the Police Station at Stanley. The whole of the ground floor and the cockpit is a divan, and the place is a regular 'factory' said Revenue-Officer Grimmitt in the Central Police Court this morning when he charged Cha Hung, an ex-constable of the Hongkong Police Force, with possession of illicit opium and keeping a divan at 47, Main Street Stanley.

Mr. Grimmitt said they found 17 pipes, 14 lamps and 24 smokers on the premises. Seven beds were laid out in good order. There was also a boiling apparatus. The divan was being run on the Macao style.

On the charge of possession Mr. Wynne-Jones fined the defendant $200 or seven weeks, and imposed the maximum penalty of $500 or six months on the second charge, the sentences to run concurrently.

ANOTHER ARREST EXPECTED

CITY RAID COURT SEQUEL

Lau Hung-yuet, shop sold, and Wu Shu-ming, unemployed, made another formal appearance before Mr. Wynne-Jones in the Central Police Court this morning charged in connexion with the robbery of $8,700 in money and a quantity of jewellery from 275, Des Voeux Road Central, on July 17.

Mr. Hin-shing Lo, instructed by Mr. J. M. Hall, appeared for the second defendant.

Det-insp. Murphy remarked that the Police were expecting

COMBINE HEAD COMING EAST

SIR HARRY MACGOWAN SAILING TO-DAY

STUDY OF THE MARKETS

London, Sept. 6.

Sir Harry MacGowan, the President of Imperial Chemical Industries, is sailing for China and Japan to-morrow by the Lloyd Triestino liner, Conte Rosso.

He will be aboard the same boat as Dr. Rajchmann, the League of Nations expert, who has been appointed to co-ordinate the work of various League experts in China.

It is understood that Sir Harry MacGowan is conducting a general tour in the Far East for the purpose of studying the activities of Imperial Chemical Industries and for an investigation of the potentialities of the important China and Japan markets.

Already there are very important organisations of the great company in the Far East, but Sir Harry MacGowan hopes as a result of his visit to suggest methods of strengthening them. —Reuter.

another arrest in the near future. Mr. Lo (laughingly): It is not so easy to arrest in Canton.

The magistrate: Apparently Inspector Murphy wants to get his missing bird, and have the three of them tied together.

Inspr. Murphy: Yes, the facts are the same.

Hearing was fixed for September 13, 14 and 15 at 2.30 p.m.

The case is a sequel to one of the most daring raids within City limits for some considerable time past. The robbers resorted to a terrible threat when, pouring kerosene oil over their victims, they threatened to set them alight.
